NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE DAY

At the Nation's Capital-Tom Gibson's Great Luck-The Boys Who Are Still Waiting.

Washington, April 12.—(Special.)—The democratic caucus this morning decided that they would adjourn the senate just as soon as possible, perhaps this week, certainsoon as possible, perhaps this week, certainly during the early part of next week. They also decided that the resolution to investigate Senator Roach should not be adopted. If the republicans insist upan an investigation they will have to do so at the next seasion. It is not believed that the republicans will do so. While Senator Hoar is anxious to push it, the majority of republicans are not with him. They are not in favor of a general investigation of all the charges that have been made against many charges that have been made against many members of that holy Wellborn Gets a Juley Plum.

Washington, April 12.—The Star has this: "It was rumored in the stock exchange today that $7,000,000 in gold will be shipped on Saturday or Tuesday. It is not believed that this large sum will go out, but should half the amount be needed it will be necessary for the secretary of the treasury to utilize a small portion of the $100,000,000 gold reserve fund. This course will be necessary should a large demand for gold be made, as the issuance of bonds could not be completed in time to benefit the department. If bonds were issued today the return of gold would hardly set in for a week. There is an impression that bonds will not be issued, as the feeling exists that Secretary Carlisle will not hesitate to dip into the gold reserve if necessary.

There is not the least apprehension among the officials of the department that the government will, be embargassed. Should the secretary find himself called upon to use the gold reserve it is thought the banks will immediately come to the rescue of the department.

The action of Secretary Carlisle in re-Mr. Wellborn Gets a Juley Plum.

Mr. Wellborn Gets a Juley Plum.

Mr. Wellborn Colquitt chuncked a large stick into the patronage fruit tree this morning and a large, red juicy plum fell gracefully into his apron.

Wellborn was appointed special agent of the internal revenue department by Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle. It pays $3,000. The Georgia contingent is delighted at his good fortune for no man among the many Georgians who have been here volunteering their services to Uncle Sam "for the good of the service" has conducted himself more admirably and none made more friends. Mr. Colquitt's duties are of a pleasant nature and will carry him into many sections of the country.

The appointment of Mr. Colquitt settles the contest for collector of internal revenue, as he was the only formidable candidate against Mr. Trammell. The place

It is generally believed that Colonel Lamont, as secretary of war, who has charge of river and harbor expenditures will follow on this same line of action. Smooth Tom Gibson.

Colonel Thomas R. Gibson, of The Augusta Evening News, enjoys the distinction of being the only Georgian who has ever kissed Baby Ruth. He was at the white house yesterday afternoon with the afternoon press people and while promenading through the building he had the good fortune to meet with Baby Ruth in company with her nurse. Mr. Gibson rushed up, raised the little one in his arms and imprinted a kiss upon her lips before the nurse could tell him that Mrs. Cleveland objected to any one kissing the baby. Baby Ruth took such a fancy to the Augustan that she wanted to go with him and when the nurse re-strained her she gave vent to her disappointment in tears. Today Mr. Gibson called upon the president alone and was given a personal in-terview of some length. Though Mr. Cleve-land told him that no more consular appointments would be made for the present it is probable that he will make Mr. Gibson consul to Edinburgh. Mr. Gibson leaves for home tomorrow morning to await de-

South Carolina conservatives are gleeful Washington, April 12.—Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh, N. C., has been selected by Secretary Hoke Smith as appointment clerk of the interior department, vice A. He is a lawyer by profession, but has never practiced, having been an editor and publisher since his seventeenth year. He succeeded Walter H. Josephus Gets a Place. south Carolina conservatives are gleeful tonight over the prospect of a victory tomorrow. It is currently reported that the name of ex-Congessman Hemphill will be sent to the senate tomorrow for the judge-ship of the court of appeals for the District of Columbia. The district people do not look on it with disfavor, as Mr. Hemphill was for two years chairman of the house district committee, and he is thoroughly identified with its interests.

The factionel fight between the Carolinians is at a standstill. Senator Irby and Senator Butler are the only representatives of the two factions now left in Washington. They are watching each other closely. The contest will be brought to a focus if the name of Editor Gonzales, of The Columbia State is sent to the senate for a consular Morton Still Weeding Them Out.

Washington, April 12.—Secretary Morton does not intend to discontinue his search for sinecures, several others besides those already disposed of having been brought to his attention. It is stated that the matter of Robert Blaine's removal was brought to the notice of President Cleveland by friends of the dead secretary, who requested that he authorize Secretary Morton to reinstate Mr. Blaine. The president called the attention of the secretary of agriculture to the matter. The secretary reminded the president of his utterances on the subject of sinecures, of which he believed the case in question to be a striking example, and said he was entirely in sympathy with the policy of the president in this respect. There the matter ended.

Mr. Smith, of Ohio. bla State is sent to the senate for a consular appointment. Senator Irby says he will defeat his editorial enemy if he has to call on the courtesy of the senate to do so. Senator Butler will force the issue if possible, thinking to show Irby's weakness in getting Gonzales's name through.

Mr. Cleveland's time will be occupied in making judicial nominations which are necessary to be confirmed at once. The confirmation of consular nominations can go over until next-session.

mediately come to the rescue of the department.

The action of Secretary Carlisle in refusing to purchase the Bowling Green site, New York, for a custom house and in declining to accept the Chestnut street site in Philadelphia for the United States mint is taken as indicating his policy in regard to the erection of public buildings, which is understood to be to defer the entering upon any costly public works in the present condition of the treasury. No less a sum than $3,000,000 would have been withdrawn for the payment of these two sites had the treasury authorities acted favorably in the matter.

the ground that the nominee was not a man

Storms in Iows, Indiana and Nebreska Great Damage to Property, with Some Fatalities.

Kansas City, April 12.-As communication gradually becomes opened up with the small towns and hamlets through Kansas and Missouri which were cyclone swept yesterday, and the news always making additions to the lists of lives and property is received, the real extent of the storm becomes known. It is impossible to get the names of the victims, however, and in most instances the accounts of destruction wrought are incomplete. Even in some places where communication has been restored, news is not available. The stricken citizens are engaged with the important duty of caring for the injured, the care of the dead, and putting together what was once their happy homes. Fifteen people are known to have been killed; thirty or forty were injured, while numberless houses, as well as smaller property, were destroyed. Much stock was also killed. Fruit trees were broken and twisted and hay stacks were scattered in all directions, and some anxiety is felt lest there be a shortage in

In Kansas the area of the storm was bounded by three tiers of counties from the eastern border, nearly every county suf-fearing more or less, Montgomery county, in fearing more or less, Montgomery county, in the extreme southeastern portion, suffering the most. Parker, a hamlet ten miles south of Independence, was almost totally destroyed. Many houses were demolished and many others were badly wrecked. Walnut, a village in Crawford, also in the southeastern portion of the state, suffered severely in wrecked houses, but there was no loss of life. A meager dispatch from that place states that it is feared that the loss of life in the outlying county districts has been great.

Throughout Brown county, in the northeast portion of the state, the storm created great havoc. Several towns were more or less damaged and many lives are reported less damaged and many lives are reported lost.

The cyclone struck Marlett, Kansas, about 5 o'clock, going from southwest to northeast and leaving much debris in its wake. Nobody was seriously hurt, though the houses of Walter Hawley and Henry Sykes, among others, were completely demolished. The towns of Willis, Everest and Powhattan were entirely demolished and several people injured, though their names are unobtainable.

Near Robinson, E. P. Polton was struck by lightning and killed.

At Mascotah several houses were unroofed and a Mrs. Burts and her baby were badly injured. With the Reorganization of the Senste Committees, and Asks for an Increase,
Washington, April 12.—Senator Call, of Florida, is profoundly impressed with the idea that great inequality and injustice result from the mode in which the committees of the senate were reorganized, and from the fact that their membership is not numerous enough to admit of a fair representation of the states. He, therefore, offered in the beginning of the present extraordinary session, a resolution increasing to fifteen the membership of some half dozen leading committees. Today he occupied the floor for nearly an hour in elucidating his views and advocating his resolution. It was laid aside without action.

A resolution for an investigation of the claim of Mr. Josph A. Ady to a sent as senator from Kansas by the committee on privileges and elections was reported by the chairman of that committee and was referred, under the rules, to the committee on contingent expenses. The last two hours of the day's session were devoted to the consideration of executive business and the senate adjourned till tomorrow.

and a Mrs. Burts and her baby were badly injured.

That part of the cyclone which struck Walnut, Kansas, continued northward and entering Missouri, struck successively the small towns of Mayview, Page City and Higginsville, where, after doing considerable damage, it spent its force.

At St. Joseph a cyclone working from west to east, and covering a strip of country two miles wide and five long, caused considerable damage. Several people were killed, among them a Mrs. Ward. Her husband was seriously injured as was also John Shelton. An unknown woman was also killed.

Run Into the Pits.

Most of the people saw the storm coming in time to get into their cyclone caves and escaped injury. The loss here will amount to thousands of dollars... The damage to crops over both states will be great. Fortunately in most places in Kansas, the corn had not been planted; had it been, it would surely have been washed out. Reports Growing Worse.

"Have we yet heard the worst?" is the question that comes to one's mind as reports are received of the ravages of Tuesday night's storm. As telegraph and telephone wires are repaired and communica-tions once more restored, reports begin to come in of death and destruction, each one seemingly more fearful than its predeces sor. Wires all over the storm region are still prostrated, but enough has been learn still prostrated, but enough has been learned to show that no section of the states escaped the storm's fury. Salem, Stanberry, Steelville, Rolla, Page City and other places report not only destruction of property but loss of life.

At Coudray, a small mining town, great havoc was wrought. The latest report from there shows six killed outright; three have died since of their injuries, and of the fifty or more injured it is thought at least twelve will die.

Nevada, Mo., and various other places report trees, outhouses, fences and roofs

Nevada, Mo., and various other places report trees, outhouses, fences and roofs blown away, the damage being small to individuals but aggregating many thousands in each place. The same is true of southern and central Illinois, Springfield, Quincy, Jackson, Danville, Centralia, Oney, Vandalia, Cafro and various other places reporting barns and other small buildings destroyed and hundreds of stock killed. No loss of human life is reported. It is now certain that there was no loss of life in this city nor were there any very serious injuries sustained, but the damage to property is considerable, aggregating over $100,000. Trains from all sections were from one to three hours late today, having been delayed by washouts and landslides. The prostration of wires also prevented, to a great extent, the giving of orders by dispatchers, and consequently on several roads only mail trains ran and these very slowly. The death list for the state until now, 10 o'clock p. m., reaches over twenty-five, and it cannot be foretold how much it may be increased as communication is re-established.

A Mississippi Town Ruined.

A Mississippi Town Ruined.

New Orleans, April 12.—The Times-Democrat's Vicksburg, Miss., special says: Conductor Thomas, of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad wires here tonight: "The entire town of Robinsonville, Coahoma county, was swept away by a cyclone about 4:30 o'clock this evening. All the stores are in flames. Several negroes, and perhaps some white men are buried in the ruins. The depot was completely destroyed and the night operator's wife killed. A colored child was also killed. Only two houses are left standing."

The down train at 6 o'clock this evening brings the news that Robinsonville, ten miles north of here, was completely destroyed by a cyclone at 4:30 o'clock this evening. Not a house is left in the town of 300 inhabitants and as a finishing touch to the destructive borror, the lamps that were burning in the stores owing to the intense darkness when the storm came, set the houses on fire and all is in ashes. Even the depot building was not spared. The night operator's wife was killed and the day operator's wife was killed and the day operator's wife was badly injured. All the wires are down and no communication can be had asve by way of Vicksburg.

and Jackson. The cyclone swept the country west and east of the fated village and killed many people, mostly colored. One colored schoolhouse at Indian Creek, one mile west of Robinsonville, was swept off and about twenty-five children are killed and missing. The teacher, a woman, who harrowly escaped with her pupils about three weeks ago in the cyclone at Tunica, was killed. The people of Tunica are trying to get assistance to their suffering neighbors, but so far have been unable to get a train. Some are preparing to leave on hand cars. The night is intensely dark and it is raining. No damage at Tunica.

The little town of Tunica was swept from the face of the earth today by a cyclone. The reports of the calamity are that the cyclone struck the town shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon and every house in the place, with two exceptions, was blown down. The report also gives the number dead as seven. The town was located on a branch of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley road.

Cyclone in Tennessee.

Cyclone in Tennesses.

Jackson, Tenna, April 12.—This city was struck by a cyclone about 5 o'clock this afternoon and a dozen of buildings were wrecked. There was no loss of life, though a number of persons were slightly injured. Everything in the path of the storm was leveled. The damage in the rural districts cannot be learned.

In Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska.
Chicago, April 12.—Last night's storm wrought such havoc with the telegraph wires that it is almost impossible to obtain particulars of the damage done in the west, where the destruction seems to have been general and widespread in the states of lowa, Illinois, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Probably the greatest damage was done in Iowa, although the reports from Nebraska indicate that when full particulars are received that state will lead in the loss of property and human life.

Along the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, in Iowa and Nebraska, the storm cut a wide swath.

The town of Akron, in the former state, is wrecked, and Westfield, a few miles distant badly demoralized.

telegraphic facilities and the washing out of the country roads, rendering communication difficult and in many cases impossible. Continuing along the railroad in Nebraska, the storm swept up farm buildings, fences and bridges and finally swooped down upon the town of Page, which it wrecked.

At this point the first loss of life was reported, Mrs. Clara Magee being the victim. Her two children were dangerously injured. Several other persons were hurt. The storm traveled with great velocity, covering two hundred miles between Akron and Page in an hour and a half.

STILL WORRYING PARDRIDGE.

Bulls Succeed in Running May Wheat Still Higher.

Chicago, April 12.—The threat of a dollar a bushel for May wheat seemed about to be realized today. Amid intense excitement the market suddenly shot up over 3 cents on top of the recent advance of nearly 12 cents. At 90, however, there was a sudden sheer descent of 6 cents, followed by a rapid rebound of 3 cents.

The whole trade seemed to feel that the fate of the great plunger, Edward Pardridge, hung in the balance, and the feeling of nervousness and anxiety was widespread. He covered his enormous short sales heavily yesterday, and the opening today found every one with whom he had dealings calling on him for margins away beyond the market.

His position was supposed to be weakened by the advances in July, as there was an idea that he was short a lot of July in addition to his short May. He has been turning securities into money for a week, but his necessities apparently had today only fairly begun. He was on the floor in person, and notwithstanding the force of his securities seemed to be more himself than son, and notwithstanding the force of his son, and notwithstanding the force of his enemies, seemed to be more himself than yesterday. He sold July yesterday around 77, and today took it back at a cent or more profit, while apparently holding like grim death to his big deal in May. BURKEHARDT ON HAND.

To Tell What He Knows About the Murder of John M. Clayton.

Morrillton, Ark., April 12.—Officer Weiner, with Nat Landers, alias Burk-hardt, the Clayton informer, arrived here this morning from Little Rock, and Hickey, the alleged assassin of of John M. Clayton, was brought in from Russellville. 'Along the route Burkhardt was beseiged at every station by crowds of anxious people to see the man who asserts so much knowledge of Arkansas's darkest murder. The crowds delayed the train so that the car in which Burkhardt was in had to be locked. Arriving here, Justice Bentley, before whom the preliminary trial is to be held, secured Burkhardt's attendance and ordered his release from actual custody. Burkhardt expressed much fear, however, that it would go hard with him if he told all he knew, and so he will be ekept unedr guard though the justice told him he was in no danger. Hickey, when brought into court, askde to waive preliminary trial, but it was refused, and at 1 o'clock Burkhardt was placed on the stand. Lawyer Jefferson Davis, of Russellville, is aiding the prosecution which Burkhardt says will convict, so far as evidence is concerned, if he tells all he knows.

W. H. Burkhardt, alias Lander, was the principal witness for the state. He told the story of his checkered career, all of which has been printed. The only new evidence obtained from him was that relating to the bargain for the assassination of Clayton. He testified that Flannery and Hickey made a talk with Charles Pate at Morrillton before going to Plummerville and that Pate gave $2,400 to do the job. Pate was recently elected constable of Howard township in this county and was killed last week by a negro, whom he was trying to arrest. Burkhardt acknowledged that he had served a three-year term in the penitentiary. the penitentiary.
At the conclusion of Burkhardt's testimony court adjourned until tomorrow.

The Murderers Under Gnard.

Morganfield, Ky., April 12.—The county officials yesterday ordered Druggist George P. Henry brought back to this place from Sturgis. The guard arrived yesterday afternoon. This was done in consequence of protests from citizens of Sturgis and vicinity, who objected strongly to the liberty allowed Henry, while the grave charge of complicity in the brutal Oliver-DeLancy murder hangs over him. All is quiet. Carter is still missing.

They Began Their Convention at Rich? mond Yesterday.

IT IS A DISTINGUISHED GATHERING.

And Their Getting Together May Mean Much for the South.

THE PURPOSES OF THE CONVENTION.

As Set Forth by Governor McKinney and Governor Fishback-Visitors Being Royally Entertained.

Richmond, Va., April 12.-(Special.)-Whatever may be the ultimate result of the influence set in motion by the conven-tion of southern governors, which met in the senate chamber of the capitol of Richmond today, the picture will go down to posterity as a group of earnest patriotic men who were seeking the best interests of their states and sections. They came here for consultation as to the best means of exploiting to the world the advantages held ut as a home by this fair land and with the lofty purpose of setting the seal of conlemnation upon and refuting the slanders that have so long been systematically propagated by the enemies of the south. The gathering of the convention drew a large crowd of spectators, who filled the senate gallery and the space in the chamber outside of the railing. Besides Gov-ernor McKinney there were present Governor Fishback, of Arkansas, who originated the convention movement: Governor Foster, of Louisiana; Governor Brown, of Maryland; Governor Jones, of Alabama; Governor Carr, of North Carolina; and Governor Stone, of Missouri. Governor Tillman arrived later in the day. The other states represented by delegates were South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and West Virginia. Kentucky, Texas and Florida were not represented The youthfulness of most of the governors is a striking feature of the assemblage, which probably numbers thirty-five, includ-ing immigration and agricultural representatives.

Today's session, which began about noon, was brief as the proceedings informal and of a routine nature. Governor McKinney's address of welcome was most cordial. Virginia was glad, he said, to welcome her guests and he felt that every man who was present had come to his former home. The governor explained that the conven-tion was held to devise better plans for building up the worst places of the south and added:

"It is an important meeting. We cannot go away and leave the public in the condi-tion it was before we came here. Something is expected; something is going to result from the meeting, either for good or evil, and it is for us to determine in our wisdom and conservative spirit whether it is to redound to good for the whole south or whether it is to be effective of evil. I trust it will be the former. There is nothing disloyal here; there is no man that is not as true and as loyal to the old flag as the president of the United States and the members of his cabinet. We have designated the southern states to compose this gathering because our position is a peculiar one. While we suffered and while we died, the north was growing richwhile we died, the north was growing richer and fatter every moment. It tells now more than before the war. There was ever as much financial prosperity in the whole history of the states as during the four years of the war."

Governor Fishback was elected president pro tem. and Colonel John Bell Bigger secretary of the body. The former, in his very nice response to Virginia's welcome, said:

See what we have fone in the last twenty-five years. we not have accomplished if we had only been free from this handicap? We have assembled to remove these obstacles in order that we may progress as our opportunities may suggest. Now, gentlemen, I will not say more except to thank my friend for he cordial greeting."

Letters were read from Governors Stone, of Mississippi, anw MacCorkle, of West Virginia, the latter of whom was detained by his wife's illness, expressing interest in the important work of the convention.

After appointing a committee, the body adjourned and the members were tendered an elegant lunch by the ladies of the Memorial Bazaar. This was followd by a three hour's drive. The visiting executives and Professor Holmes, of North Carolina, dined with Governor McKinney tonight at 9 o'clock and spent the remainder of the evening at the executive mansion. Lieutenant Governor Tyler was also present. The work of the convention was talked over informally and some ideas advanced that will probably be put into shape tomorrow.

The concensus of opinion is that each state will be allowed one vote in the body.

LATEST FROM THE MIXE HORROR.

The Fires Extinguished, but Gas Fumes Overpowering.

London, April 12.—The latest news from Port-y-Pridd, where the fearful mine explosion occurred yesterday, is to the effect that the fire in the mine was virtually quenched at 10 o'clock today. The fumes of gas, however, are still so noxious as to drive out those who undertake to explore the mine in search of the dead and for the rescue of those who might be living. Many of the explorers are suffering severely from the effects of the smoke and deadly gasses which they encountered. Further search will be necessary to ascertain the full extent of the calamity.

Fifty-Three Corpses.

At 11 o'clock this evening, the pit had become so cool that three exploring parties were able to descend and go some distance into the seam. They found three dead men, but discovered no trace of the main body of miners, whe were cut off from escape by the flames yesterday.

Up to 2 o'clock this, Thursday, morning, fifty-three corpses had been taken from the pit. Searching parties had found no signs that any of the missing miners were still alive. The bodies of eleven men were huddled behind a door, as if they sought shelter there from a hurricane of fiery sparks sweeping by. Other bodies were found in the return airways where the victims were caught while probably trying to escape. A court has examined the bodies and reports that all of the victims died of suffocation. There are no internal injuries noted on any of the bodies. The searching parties are of the opinion that other bodies will be found under the piles of debris lying everywhere in the mine.

THE BUILDING WRECKED

And the Workmen Went Down in the Rulns Explosion in Spain.

Madrid, April 12.—There was an explosion in the Sala Caladia Company's mills in Mataro this morning. The roof of the building was blown off, and struck the ground more than a hundred yards from the foundations. The walls were rent and most of the flooring torn up. All the men employed by the company were at work when the explosion occurred. Most of them went down in the wreck. The fire which broke out immediately after the explosion, was extinguished and the work of rescue was begun at once. The dead bodies of nine workmen and the manager have been removed from the ruins. Fifty men are trying to recover the rest of the bodies. The number of dead is not known yet.

London, April 12.—The English, Scottish and Australian chartered bank has failed with liabilities amounting to 6,000, 000 pounds or $30,000,000. The bank was incorporated by a royal charter in 1852, and claimed to have a paid up capital of 900,000,000 pounds and a reserve fund of 310,000 pounds. The London office is at No. 38 Lombard street, E. C. Charles John Hegan is chairman, and the court of directors includes William George Iden, John Inglis, Sir William Anderson Ogg J. D. Thompson, James Tullock and John Harrison Watson. The auditors are W. Aelin and Alexander Young, and the bank-Aelin and Alexander Young, and the bankers of the institution are the Bank of England, the National Provincial Bank of England, the British Linen Company and the Bank of Ireland. The failure has added to the anxiety and consternation which the recent failures of financial institutions with Australian connections have caused.

The Honduras Revolution. New Orleans, April 12.—Dispatches received here last night from Honduras, announce that the revolutionists have abandoned the interior, and are moving toward the Atlantic coast. The liberal party is said to have seized the American Steamship Rover, of the Oteri line, engaged in the fruit trade and with the assistance of the ship captured Truxillo.

Puerto Cortez is strongly guarded, and no fears of an assault at this point are felt by the government. Steps will be taken immediately by the government to quell the revolution, which is now transferred to the coast.

The Tennessee Derby.

Memphis, Tenn., April 12.—The bedraggled skirts of yesterday's storm whisked over this section this evening and the drought of many weeks was broken. Rain in torrents fell tonight, but the thirsty earth drinks it up as fast as it descends and scarce a surface rivnlet is seen outside of the city, where the streets are paved. The track at Montgomery park is in prime condition and some rood work is expected tomorrow.

The Tennessee derby is the third race. Following are the entries: Mile and an eighth, $1,000 added—Lookout and Calhoun, 122, $25; Belfast and Hugh Penny, 122, $25; Bel Speed, 109, $8; Revenue, 119, $12; Frank Ellis, 122; Michael, 112 and Francis Pope 122.

The Sale of the Oglethorpe Not Confirmed by Judge Speer Newsy Notes and Personal Gossip.

Macon, Ga. April 12.—(Special.)—The ad-journed meeting of the Southwestern railrord stockholders convened today at noon at the Academy of Music; Washington Dessau, chairman, and William S. Brant-y, secretary.

The object of the meeting was to hear the report of the special committee: W. G. Raoul, of Atlanta, chairman; Frank K. Miller of Augusta and T. B. Gresham of Baltimore, appointed at the late meeting of hwestern stockholders to go to New York and carefully investigate the plan proposed for the Central's reorganization, and learn if something better for the Southwestern could not be obtained. The committee's report was published in The Constitution about two weeks ago, and in the main, was favorable to the reorganization scheme.

The meeting today was not as large in number as the one held in Macon a short while ago, but was certainly in intelligent and representative one in every respect.

The attendance, however, was very fair

To this Mr. Solomon responded: "Then I give notice now that I will enter protest against your voting them, and in doing so I rely upon the decision of Judge Speer, made by him recently in reference to the well-known forty-two thousand shares of Central stock owned by the Terminal."

Chairman Raoul, of this committee, then read a supplementary report from the committee, the cream of which was a resolution to the effect that the attorneys of the road be directed to protect the road against the enforcement of any lien or mortgage and that the attorneys be requested to try and get an order of the court directing that the earnings of the road since June 1, 1892, be set aside for the protection of the stockholders.

Captain John G. Davis, of Albany, moved that the report of the committee, together with the supplemental report, be adopted. The motion was seconded.

that the report of the committee, together with the supplemental report, be adopted. The motion was seconded.

Colonel Ransone, of Macon, asked that Chairman Raoul explain to the meeting the reason that led the commission to report in favor of the Southwestern entering the reorganization. This he proceeded to do on the lines already published. He stated that in the opinion of the committee, the securities offered by the reorganization would be of greater value than the stock could possess if the Southwestern is operated as the independent line. He said if run as an independent road, it would require the earnings of at least four years to properly equip the road to put it in competition with the progressive railroading of the age.

Mr. T. B. Gresham, another committeeman, explained his reasons for now favoring reorganization. He said reorganization was the proper and wiser plan. It would give life and market price to the stock.

The Sale Not Confirmed The Sale Not Confirmed.

Last Tuesday Commissioners Alexander Proudfit and Nicholas Tally, of Macon, appointed by Judge Speer, of the United States court, to sell the Oglethorpe hotel at Brunswick, put up the property at public outery and it was bought by the bondholders at $25,000. The property is estimated to be worth $150,000. Parties owning $2,500 worth of bonds objected to the sale, as it was too low and their holdings would not bring over 10 cents on the dollar. Today Thuge Speer declined to confirm the sale and ordered another sale. Judge Boling Whitfield, of Brunswick, was present as attorney for the bondholders. It is rumored that General Superintendent Wadley, of the Central, has written a letter to Macon in which he states that he letter to Macon in which he states that he is willing to make a contract with the engineers even better than Judge Speer's decision would authorize and copies of the contract, it is said, have been sent to all terminal points for the engineers to sign. It is claimed that investigation shows that this Wadley contract is nothing more or less than the contract that was annexed to Receiver Comer's answer filed in Judge Speer's court and is practically simply a schedule of wages. The engineers say they can't be caught napping in any such manner and will not sign Mr. Wadley's contract, notwithstanding his letter that it is a better contract than the court would make.

Hotels Already Very Busy—Exhibits Rapidly Arriving.

Chicago, April 12.—Today for the first time, the Chicago hotels commenced to be rushed owing to the influx of world's fair visitors. The tide of strangers may be said to have fairly started, though the grand increase, the flood of visitors will not begin until about April 25th. A great many people coming here, who have engaged rooms ahead, have arranged to reach here about that date. The offices and corridors of hotels are crowded and it was hard to get through the groups which gathered there discussing the world's fair and other topics. The subject most talked of was the announcement that the big music hall at the world's fair grounds would have to be remodeled. The building is now so constructed as to create a disagreeable echo which destroys the effect of the music rendered. It is only on the interior of the hall, however that trouble exists. It is thought that the changes necessary can be made easily.

THE SECOND OF THE OWNER SERVICES AND THE SECOND PROPERTY OF THE SECO

The Western and Atlantic Has $150,000 Invested in Shops.

AND ALL OF ITS MACHINERY IS NEW.

Mr. Collier Has a Fine Plant, Perfect Discipline and the Neatest Shops in the Country.

The Western and Atlantic railroad has just completed its shops here at a cost of $150,000.

The company has now a plant which is not excelled anywhere except in size. What there is of it, is of the finest. All the machinery is new and the best that is made. It was costly but it will do fine work. There are single pieces that cost $4,000 and several that cost from $1,600 to $3,000. All the lathes, turning machines and driving machines are of the latest make. Yesterday Major McCollum, the superintendent, and Mr. M. L. Collier, the master mechanic, showed a Constitution reporter through the shops and they were justly proud of their plant and the work that they are now able to do here. At one machine, a machinist was turning down a pair of tires on the drivers of an engine which is being rebuilt for passenger work. It was ordinarily a Baldwin but when completed it will be mostly a Collier.

The road has got rid of all its light engines and now has none that cannot haul. twenty cars. This saves engines and a part of the space formerly needed in the roundhouse for stalls has been utilized for other purposes. There are still thirtyseven stalls. The turntable has been rebuilt as described in The Constitution last summer and can be managed by a fourteenyear-old-boy, whereas formerly, as Major McCollum remarked, it took fourteen men to turn an engine.

The carshop has been rebuilt and is fit-ted up with fine machinery. In between the shops is a room supplied with basins and lockers where each mar can leave his clothes when he dons his working suit. A notice which is posted conspicuously, says that no loud talking or swearing is allowed. And not a word is heard during a tour of the shops. The cipline is perfect. Every man is busy at his work and paying no attention to any one else. Another thing which is noticeable is the neatness of the shops. Everthing is as clean as a good housekeeper's kitchen. A manufacturer, who recently inpected the shops, paid them the compliment of saying that they were the cleanest he ever saw.

In fitting the shops, steam heating appa ratus was put in and in a few minutes the temperature can be raised to 70 degrees even in the coldest weather. even in the coldest weather. All the machinery is run by an engine of 150-horse power and half of that drives all the machinery that is usually in working at one time. All the water that is condensed from the steam passing through the heating pipes, passes back into a reservoir and is automatically pumped into the boiler. The oil that is used in the driving machine is used over and over. This machine works on the hydraulic principle and the jet of oil which does the work, is no larger than the

on the hydraulic principle and the jet of oil which does the work, is no larger than the head of a pin. The power is equal to a pressure of 250 tons.

The rebuilding of the old shops and the building of the new was done thoroughly and substantally. Space was economized; room was saved in the shops and more was given on the outside for tracks.

For their size, the Western and Atlantic shops are a model.

Did Mr. Crawford Talk in His Speech Before

Judge Pardee Savannah, Ga., April 12 .- (Special.)-The United States courtroom was crowded to the extent of its capacity this morning, everybody waiting in expectancy to hear the continuation of the sensational speech of Mr. Crawford, attorney for the Richmond Terminal, who was expected to make some pretty strong charges. He continued his argument on the motions he in-troduced yesterday stating that the receiver of the present day manages property after his own fashion in collusion with the courts. He arraigned Judge Speer for passing an order allowing the Hollins syndicate to sell the collateral securities of the company at private sale and to buy it in themselves if the indebtedness was not paid on the day it fell due, which is July 1st. He said that in attempting to do anything for the reorganization as he had, the district judge laid aside his judicial robes and permitted the court to be guilty of too bold a usurpation. He charged that the court had, by its order, shut off every avenue of escape for junior security holders and had practically put the entire property in the power of the syndicate which was also the reorganization committee, thus drawing double commission for their

"It was intended," said he, "to destroy every atom of junior right. The remarkable spectacle is presented of a judge who boldly sets the stamp of the court's approval on a rorganization plan in advance of hearing any party who might be opposed. As far as the district judge is concerned, he has acted improperly."

Judge Pardee here interrupted the speaker and prohibited him from further criticising Judge Speer as he said the action of the district judge was not germane to the discussion. He permitted it, he said, as he had before heard in court the rights of the Terminal company.

before heard in court the rights of the Terminal company.

Mr. Adams made a brief reply stating that the contract was the same as made under the Speyer loan and had to be made in order to extend the obligations.

Mr. Lowrey replied in behalf of the reorganization committee and then the Savannah and Western case was resumed, Judge Tompkins closing for the plaintiff asking for an independent receiver. The decision was reserved.

An arrangement will be made by the attorneys to set a date for the hearing of the motion to discharge the receiver before Judge Pardee at New Orleans at an early date. The Terminal people left for New York tonight.

CAPTURED THE OFFICE.

The Telegraph Operator Was Run Out by an Intruder.

A stout, heavy set man entered the telegraph signal office of the Georgia Pacific at Oakdale, ten miles from Atlanta, Tuesday night and demanded possession. He picked up a chair and the operator had to back out, not being armed.

The intruder then proceeded to smash the furniture with the chairs. He broke the windows, a lamp, the table and the telegraph instruments. The lamp set fire to the table and the man ran out. The operator returned and extinguished the blaze. His visitor was not recognized. He was either crazy or drunk.

That May Prove to Be a Tragedy on

New York, April 12.—What may develop into a tragedy of the sea, was discovered on Monday by Captain Catherine, of the steamer City of Augusta, of the steamer left Savannah on Sunday, and when off Cape Lookout on Monday morning, Captain Catherine sighted a three-masted schooner a few miles to the starboard and drifting aimlessly about. Though there was a stiff breeze blowing at the time, she had only two jibs set and was not attempting to make any headway. Although no signals of distress were shown, the sight was so peculiar that Captain Catherine determined to overhaul the vessel and find out if there was any trouble on board. No signs of life were evident, and the fact that one jib sail was dragging in the water, made it appear as if she had been abandoned. When the steamer got within half a mile of the schooner, the first sign of life was shown, a man being discovered in the stern, though not at the wheel. Soon three other men appeared midships. Captain Catherine hailed the men abord and asked if anything was the matter. The reply was a gruff assurance that everything was all right.

"Want ay help?" asked Canptain Catherine.

"No, we're resting," was the response.

"Any officers aboard," asked the captain of the steamer.

To this there was no response, though a red-shirted man who seemed to be in charge, pointed to the forward hatchway, which was open, the main hatch being battered down. No information could be obtained as to where the vessel hailed from or to what port she was bound.

As there was nothing more that Captain Catherine could do, he had to go on and leave the schooner in the trough of the sen. He ordered a note to be made that at 10:30 oclock he had spoke the three-musted schooner, Ella M. Storer, of Boston, off Cape Lookout under suspicious circumstances, which were detailed as above.

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

Efforts to Bring the Act Before the United States Supreme Court.

Washington, April 12.—Extraordinary efforts will be made to secure adjudication upon the Chinese exclusion act_by the supreme court at this term. The matter has been the subject of correspondence between the government o fChina and of the United Sates, and at teh request of the state department, the department of justice has completed the necessary preliminaries in conjunction with counsel for the Chinese government and its subjects in this country. Under the terms of the law commonly known as the Geary act, all Chinese laborers in the United States are required to register themselves with the proper of-known as the Geary act, all Chinese laborers in the United States are required to register themselves with the proper officers and secure certificates thereof within one year from the taking effect of the law, May 5, 1892. Therefore a case to determine the validity of the law cannot be begun until the 5th of next month. In ordinary circumstances, it would be impossible to bring a case before the United States supreme court before the adjournment for the summer recess. But by the concurrent action of all parties interested, which has been secured in view of the important international character of the questions involved, the standing of the law will be decided within a few weeks, thus obviating a long, tedious and expensive litigation. The arrangement entered into, contemplates the arrest of a Chinese laborer in New York for violation of the terms of the law, a prompt decision in the lower courts, New York for violation of the terms of the law, a prompt decision in the lower courts, and an appeal to the supreme court of the United States, which may be heard on the 8th of May. If the programme is carried out, the decision will be rendered by the middle of May, at which time the court expects to adjourn sine die for the term.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS AND FORECAST.

A cool northeast wind kept the tempera-ture down rather low yesterday in the states bordering the Atlantic from Georgia to New York. The lowest temperature in these states prevailed in the mountainous districts, states prevailed in the mountainous districts, or more strictly speaking, on the eastern side of the mountains, where the full effect of the northeast wind was felt. From the western base of the Appalachians over all states clear to the Rockies temperatures were high yesterday, except in the northeastern states, where some freezing weather was reported. In Atlanta at 7 o'clock last night the temperature was 54 degrees. Hundreds of miles farther north, at Detroit and Chicago, the temperature was 10 degrees warmer at the same hour. In the northwest at 7 o'clock the temperature was down to freezing at St. Paul and 8 degrees below freezing at Huron.

The cool weather occasioned some un-easiness amongst fruit growers of north Georgia last night, but their fears have proved to be groundless, as there are no signs of a damaging frost this morning in signs of a damaging frost this morning in any section of the state.

Scattered rains were reported over a considerable portion of the Mississippi valley and in the country farther east yesterday, most all of which were light, the heaviest being .82 of an inch at Savannah. Little precipitation was reported in any section of the country west of the Mississippi valley, only light snow falls in the Dakotas.

For Georgia today: Generally fair, warmer.

Shortage MEMORANDA FOUND. IMPORTANT

He Had Jotted Down the Sums and Where the Money Went-He Evidently Car-ried Off $40,300 Before He Skipped.

The investigation of the looting of the Gate City bank is proceeding by slow and regular stages. Four witnesses were examined yesterday and it is said that some amined yesterday and it is said that some interesting facts were discovered, but what they are is not so easily learned. The secrecy which is thrown around the grand jury room and what transpires therein is deep and ponderous. It is so weighty that nobody has yet been found who can lift it. Once in a while a reporter gets it tilted up on one end and sees a little that is hid beneath, but directly the weight drops and all is concealed again.

Yesterday's witnesses were: Mr. Mc-Allen B. Marsh, President Lod Hill, Mr. John Wheat, bookkeeper, and Mr. Frank Wifeat, paying teller in the suspended bank.

Mr. Marsh was questioned about the affairs of the Atlanta and Florida railroad and the syndicate which was formed two years ago to buy it and sell it. Mr. Marsh and the syndicate which was formed two years ago to buy it and sell it. Mr. Marsh was a large stockholder in the property. He went into the scheme believing that the syndicate could find a purchaser for the road or that it would be possible to extend it to the seacoast and make a handsome thing out of it. He invested thousands of dollars in the road and besides bought options on large tracts of timber land in Coffee and Irwin counties. He expected that the line would be extended and that the timber and turpentine privileges would increase in value. The extension was never made. Mr. Marsh stated to the jury that the money which went into the road was raised legitimately and that the Gate City bank's money did not go into it. He was also questioned about tome incidents which occurred after Lewis Redwine disappeared, but nothing new was elicited. Mr. Marsh emphasized the statement that the bank's money did not go into the Atlanta and Florida.

The bookkeeper and the paying teller testified as to the methods of the bank. They were closely questioned.

The bookkeeper to the paying teller testified to amounts that he paid out at specified times to certain parties and to messengers who were sent with checks.

were closely questioned. The bookkeeper sold of certain accounts and the paying teller testified to amounts that he paid out at specified times to certain parties and to messengers who were sent with checks.

Mr. Lod Hill was examined closely about some of the loans that were made by the bank. He told of the bank's financial condition and explained his own interests in other investments.

There had been testimony about the Atlanta and Florida securities which Mr. Hill owned and which he turned over to Tom Cobb Jackson to negotiate. He was examined about this transaction and explained that the securities were to go into a pool which was to control the company. Most of the witnesses have been surprised at questions which were asked them. The district attorney and the special counsel appeared to have information which some of the witnesses were not aware any one else had than themselves. The fact seems to be that the authorities have more inside information than they have ever been credited with possessing. And they have. They have secured private memoranda which Lewis Redwine made and left behind in his hurried flight. There are amounts and names and dates which have enabled the authorities to trace money farther than they had reason to expect. As has been stated in The Constitution, Redwine made careful preparations to skip. Just yesterday new information was obtained on this point. It has been known all along that he had put his life insurance policy and other papers in the pockets of his overcoat, which he left in the bank when he went down stairs into the bar to get a drink and it looks now that he carried $40,300 away.

Redwine kept a memorandum of all the money which he embezzled. He was shrewd enough to do that, for unless he knew the exact amount of the shortage he would have had no way to make his cash and his books balance when the examiners came around. He was not trusting to any guess work or oversight. He always knew just the sum he was behind or could tell with a little figuring. He was anxious to d and passed into the possession of the authorities. The papers help to vindicate the innocent.

The theory on which Mr. Jack Spalding's testimony is explained is that he was asked single questions which showed him that the attorneys had all the information which Redwine gave him. It is said that he did not give a new fact, for Lewis Redwine's statement was known. There are some little incidents in this case which seem insignificant by themselves, but which are of the greatest importance. It was stated last night that the latest discovery is of the most imporance, but who it connects is withheld. And so is its nature beyond the general information that it has made the tracing of the money easier and the direction certain sums took was cleared up.

One who is familiar with the progress of the case says that Mr. Stone, the bank examiner, has rendered every assistance in his power and has aided the investigation to a great extent.

He says:

"When the order to suspend the investigation came Mr. Darnell and Mr. Angier had only a few days more to save and the suspension of the inquiry was not hurtful at all. The vigor with which Messrs. James and Rucker and Captain Jackson have resumed the case does not look as though Mr. Olney wanted to let up on the prosecution." The investigation will be taken up again today.

COVERED WITH MUD AND BRUISES,

He Appears in the City, and Spreads Con-sternation in His Track-Has Been Three Times in the Asylum.

A wild-eyed, wild-looking madman, with hair disheveled, eyes expressionless and staring in a vacant way, and whose cloth-ing was disarranged, created intense consternation in many parts of the city by his crazy actions yesterday morning.

From reports received at police head-quarters, it seems that the wild man visited nearly every section of the city yesterday morning, and everywhere he went he caused annic and terrible fright. Wherever he panic and terrible fright. Wherever he went he caused crowds of frightened people in his wake and many complaints were made to the police. A half dozen policemen in different quarters of the city were search-ing for the madman on their beats during the morning. He was finally arrested by Patrolmed Sheridan and Elliott on Capitol

The man was R. A. Pressley, of West End, who has been three times in the asylum and who has been pronounced cured as many times as he has been in the asylums for End, who has been three times in the asylum and who has been pronounced cured as many times as he has been in the asylums for the insane. He was discharged from the State Insane asylum at Milledgeville a few years ago, and it was thought at the time that a complete cure had been effected. He returned to his family in this city as sound mentally as he had ever been, and resumed his trade at which he has been working with success since his return from the asylum.

Mr. Pressley is a contractor and makes a comfortable income. He has a large family living in West End dependent upon him for support. Henry Pressley, a fireman at No. 1 engine house, is a son of his. Mr. Pressley attended to his business without manifesting any symptoms of returning mental troubles until two days ago. He once more became flighty two days ago and left home. He spent night before last away from home, and turned up yesterday morning on the extreme western end of Marietta street, mad as a March hare. He was covered with mud and dirt and told a wonderful story to those with whom he conversed. He said that he had been out to the Chattahoochee river to commit suicide and had jumped from the railroad bridge into the running stream with that object in view, but had been rescued and saved. His muddy appearance was the only corroborative evidence of the truth of his story.

Mr. Pressley no sooner reached the city limits than he proceeded to stir up things. He visited nearly every house in sight and accused the occupants of stealing from him and declared his intention of wreaking a terrible vengeance. He went from house to house making threats, and now and then becoming calm, during which times he would tell the story about his mad leap from the river bridge.

He spread terror among the inhabitants of the section around the exposition cotton mills. Patrolman Wilson was notified of Pressley's wild actions, and spent several hours searching for the mad man. Coming further into the city, Pressley kept up his mad work and Patrolman Harris was put on hi shoultest to arrived to the police station and locked up. During the afternoon he grew wilder than ever and raved and tore about his cell.

Mr. Pressley is a veteran of the confederate army, and was badly wounded in the face at the battle of Savage station. It is thought that this old wound is the cause of his sad condition. He does not drink at all. Custodian Carlisle, of the police station, has known Pressley since his early boyhood and was with him during the war.

Twice, before leaving South Carolina, where we were raised, I carried him to the asylum of that state. After coming to Atlanta and getting on the police force, I arrested him, and after his trial for lunacy, carried him to the asylum of this state. He remained at Milledgeville until it was thought that he was permanently cured. The present attack seems to be the worst he has ever had."

Mr. Pressey will be tried for lunacy.

CLASH OF AUTHORITY.

United States Deputy Marshals Arrest Two Men Wanted by the State Court. Carrollton, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—Carrollton is all excitement this evening over the clash between the officers and court of Carroll county and two deputy United States marshals.

Deputy United States Marshals Jack Abercrombie, Jule Johnson and Joe Rowe arrived here yesterday with warrants for a number of the white cap crowd in the custody of the sheriff of the county. The trial commenced yesterday evening. Sheriff Hewitt, by order of Judge Harris, telegraphed District Attorney Hon. Joe S. James not to interfere with the prisoners or witnesses and the district attorney sent a long dispatch back to Judge Harris stating that neither the prisoners nor any of the witnesses should be molested by the deputy marshals, but asked that they be held when the trial was over in Carroll county until the United States officers could get them and carry them to Atlanta. Colonel James asked that the dispatch be shown to the marshals, which was done by Sheriff Hewitt by order of the court. The marshals promised they would not molest the prisoners or any witnesses connected with the case.

Last night, however, Jule Johnson and Joe Rowe went to New Mexico district and arrested W. C. Brook, who is undebond for being connected with the riot, and Pleas Wright, who is subpoenaed for the defense in the riot case. These officers brought Brook and Wright to Carrollton last night and they were put in jail. The mafter was communicated to Judge Harris and he sent for Deputy Marshal Jule Johnson, who seemed to be chief of deputies. Judge Harris told him that Brook and Wright were wanted in the trial that was going on and told him not to carry them away. Johnson promised not to carry them prisoners off until Judge Harris liberated them, but it seems that Johnson did not keep his promise. He left this evening without the knowledge of the court or state officers on the 3 o'clock train for Kramer with Brook and Wright. He was telegraphed at Kramer by Sheriff Hewitt, but Johnson would not answer the telegram. Then Jack Abercrombie, the other marshal who was left here, telegraphed Johnson to come back with the prisoners and Johnson replied to him that he wanted.

Judge Harris issued an order for Jule Johnson, Joe Rowe and th Deputy United States Marshals Jack Abercrombie, Jule Johnson and Joe Rowe arrived here yesterday with warrants for Coachman Gone to Macon.

Henry C. Coachman, the East Tennessee porter who was caught robbing a mail car on the train on which he was employed, last week, was yesterday transferred from the Atlanta, jail to the Bibb county jail, to await trial at Macon.

The case will be remembered by the readers of The Constitution. Coachman was a shrewd, clever negro employed as a porter on the East Tennessee road. He was quick to catch on and made it a point to watch the mail agents at their work. One day, about a week ago on the run between Atlanta and Macon, he was surprised in the mail car by two mail agents while he was tampering with the mail bags. He had enter it he mail car during the absence of the clerks and was opening the mail pouches. He is an Atlanta negro and resides at 8 Holland street.

Two Burglaries Reported. J. T. Kitchens's bar, at the corner of Whitehall and Wall streets, was entered by experienced burglars some time night before last, and robbed of a goodly quantity of goods. The burglary was discovered by the bartender yeterday morning when the place was opened up for business. The burglary was at once reported to the police.

The drug store on the corner of White-hall and Garnett streets was also entered by burglars night before last, and the money drawer emptied and some goods taken. The burglary was discovered yesterday morning, and the detectives believe it was perpetrated by the same gang who robbed the saloon at the corner of Whitehall and Wall streets. They are at work on the cases and hope to find the bold gang of midnight thieves who operate on the most frequented streets in the city.

A Necessary Tax. We have time and again shown in these columns that an income tax is eminently fair and just, and that it would be the right thing to grade it in proportion to the size of the income.

Leaving these arguments out of the question for the present, it is in order to say that the democratic policy as outlined in our platform makes an income tax a necessity. We are pledged to give the country a tariff for revenue only-a low tariff without a vestige of protection-a tariff that will give us such free trade conditions as England enjoys.

The new administration was called to the front by the people upon this promise and the pledge of financial reform. It will have to carry out these promises, but it will also have to provide the money for meeting the exrequires a very large sum annually to run the federal machine, and when we cut down the tariff we must look some where else for the money. It , will never do to impose a tariff on some of the poor man's necessaries like sugar and coffee; we must raise the money in some other way. But how shall it be done? We are at the end of our row unless we tax the incomes of the rich, and while we are about it we should make it a graded tax. If we are going to follow England's free trade policy we must adopt her system of taxation to some extent, and we shall find that the reasons which make an income tax necessary in her case will be equally urgent here. We must raise a certain amount of money to carry on the government, and a low tariff will force us to levy a new tax. Naturally, the incomes of the rich invite this tax. They are all taxed in all low tariff countries, and they will have to be taxed here, or the government will have to run its credit, and leave another generation to foot the bill.

An income tax is a necessity.

Too Much Paternalism. The statistics proving that in recent years there has been an immense increase in the number of our criminals may be misleading. We have more criminals, says a recent writer, because we have more statutory crimes. About half of the people of this country live in cities and incorporated towns. Now, the author-Ities of these communifies meet about once a week and pass ordinances. They are always engaged in regulating their fellow citizens and their property. They are never satisfied until they get a set of ordinances under which the average respectable citizen conscionsly or unconsciously becomes a criminal every day in the year. If you want to see paternalism in its most arbitrary shape, go and read a few thousand

American municipal ordinances. Municipal legislation regulates trade, travel, religious observances, private affairs and habits, conversation, the hours of business, the arrangement of the citizen's premises, and the penalty for the violation of an ordinance practically includes imprisonment for debt, or involuntary servitude.

We are governed altogether too much and we have as much paternalism to the square inch as any country on the face of the globe. Congress, the state legislatures and the city and town governments keep on grinding out penal statutes until no living man knows the law, and the judges, in sheer despera-tion, have to turn out a lot of bench law to straighten out the tangle.

This is why our statistics credit us with so many criminals. It is not beause our people are busy committing rime, but because our paternal rulers are busy inventing new

If we go on in this fashion for another generation, an overwhelming percentage of our population will be ranked as criminals. And yet nine-tenths of the violators of municipal and some of the state and federal laws are just as good citizens as the authorities who are re sponsible for all this paternal legislation. Perhaps this evil necessarily accompanies progress. If so, there is no remedy. We must have progress, no matter what it costs.

How Cholera Travels. A St. Louis man recalls some interesting facts connected with the cholera epidemic of 1849.

In that year the plague entered this country at New Orleans and spread up the lines of travel, especially along the While the epidemic was in rivers. St. Louis, an old-fashioned circus spent few days in the city, and then went northward in wagons by a zigzag route from town to town, never remaining more than one day in a place. The cholera struck every little town visited by the circus, within forty-eight hours after the appearance of the show. There was no bad water to invite the disease and no contact with cholera patients. The explanation given by medical men was that some kind of germ was in the baggage of the circus people, and when unpacked it was liberated. In our efforts to bar out cholera it will not be enough to prevent the immigration of persons from infected ports. We must keep out merchandise, and everything in which a germ can find a lodgment. This is the theory of some experts. Others claim that we can safely throw open our ports to all the world, and by simply cleaning up our cities and towns and providing them with a pure water supply, we can stamp out the disease as soon as it

Perhaps it would be a good idea adopt both theories, and try quarantine and thorough sanitation.

The Immigration Question.

The convention of southern governors in session at Richmond this week revives public interest in the matter of immigration.

We receive very few foreign immigrants in the south. Of the 375,000 foreigners who landed in New York last year only about 3,500 went south. About one-half of the whole number remained in New York, and the others went to the western states. The immigrants settling in the south have always been Americans of northern birth.

In a recent article dealing with this subject The New York Sun shows that while in the country at large the proportion of foreign-born inhabitants is about 14 per cent, it is only 2.60 per cent of the total in the fourteen southern states. Our contemporary says: There is reason for everything, and most plausible and satisfactory reason creditable to the people of the south for the fewness of foreign-born persons among them is the fact that the surplus supply of the cheap labor of negroes keeps down to unprofitable figures the rate of wages, and industry does not thrive or invention prosper where wages not thrive or invention prosper where wage are low. Political considerations have not ing to do with the matter. The farmer, me chanic, husbandman, or retailer seeks, when emigrating from one place to another, the lo-cality where his labor will be best requited, and the maintenance of high wages has kept the gates of entry in the United States swinging inwardly since 1861. But the south, as we see, has had little and gets little of the

This obstacle is only temporary. The industrial development of the south increases the demand for skilled labor, and our cheap raw material, unsurpassed water power and other advantages will in a few years cause manufacturing towns to be built up that will attract and properly compensate a host of workingmen of almost every class. When we reach that stage of progress it goes without saying that foreigners will come southward. The tide of immigration is bound to set in this direction because there is more unoccupied or uncultivated productive land in this region than can be found in any other part of the union, and it can be purchased for comparatively nothing. The Sun is right when it says that political considerations have nothing to do with the matter. It is mainly a question of profit and loss, and when we properly advertise our resources and opportunities we may expect to see a multitude of immigrants rush in to occupy our cheap and fertile lands, and, later, the skilled workman will follow to seek employment in our mills and furnaces. The best way to encourage the right kind of immigration is to let the outside world know just what we have here, what we are doing, and what we are capable of doing.

Mr. Buck and Mr. Watson.

The Constitution can hardly make a remark about current politics or the weather, but what some grasshopper jumps on top of a tussock and says that we are unfriendly to the administration and that we are conspiring against Mr. Cleveland. The grasshopper tells it to the katydid, the katydid to the betsy bug, and the betsy bug to the purple-eyed scarabaeus, until altogether there is as much hoise as one could make by shaking a ripe peascod. When The Constitution, striving for the reform of an evil of republican origin, urged the right of Georgia to a fair share of the federal patronage, the grasshoppers and the betsy bugs set up their shrill chorus, declaring that ve were trying to embarrass Mr. Cleveland, but the chorus died away when it was seen that the administration itself had practically endorsed The Constitution's suggestion.

Later when we began to urge the prompt redemption of the pledges of the party, the grasshoppers and the katydids renewed their small concert. They smelled a rumpus in the air because of a suggestion that the party should lose no time in fulfilling the promses made in the platform.

Just at present the grasshoppers are jiggering away because The Constitu-tion, in pursuit of its policy as a news-paper, published a news interview about the plans and purposes of ex-Congress-man Tom Watson, who is recognized as the real leader of the third party move-ment in Georgia. The publication of ment in Georgia. The publication of the Watson interview is halled by the rasshoppers and the betsy bugs as a gn that The Constitution is "trying to Cleveland and his policy." It might well be supposed that even a grass-hopper would hesitate before making a hopper would hesitate before manning public exhibition of such silliness as

As foollish as this is the effort to make it appear that Watson is of no importance as a political factor, and that his plans and purposes are of no interest to the people of Georgia. But the vote that he polled against Hon. J. C. C. Black, a democrat as pure, as honorable and as accomplished as can be found in the land, shows not only that he is a formidable opponent but that he has a following. Such a man is bound to be a disturbing factor in politics, and if the grasshoppers who are so anxious to be caught crawling on Mr. Cleveland's breeches legs, think they can dispose of him by ignoring him, they will reckon without their host in this instance, as they have reckoned in many other instances.

It is important to every democrat in Georgia to know that ex-Congressman Watson proposes to make a state campaign. It is important to every demoerat who cares anything for the unit of the party, to know the outlines of the scheme that Watson proposes to further, and in laying these before the people we feel that we have accomplished a stroke of newspaper enterprise that has an importance beyond its news features. Every sensible democrat will regard the matter from this point of view, and proceed to take measures to prevent Mr. Watson's pro posed campaign from bearing fruit This will be the earnest effort of The Constitution. Every sensible democrat, moreover recognizes the fact that the simplest way to dispose of Watson and those vho are disposed to train with him is for the democratic party to lose no time in redeeming the pledges made in its platform. This will leave him with out any ground to stand on and with no excuse for his attitude save a desire to divide and disrupt the democratic party.

If the grasshoppers and betsy bugs want something to jigger and buzz about, we refer them to the case of Boss Buck, as it now stands, and as it seems likely to stand for some time to come. They can criticise The Constitution for printing a timely interview with the third party leader, but they have never a word to say about the retention in office of Boss Buck, the leader of the republican party in Georgia. Colonel Buck is an offensive republican partisan, and he glories in the fact. He is the leader and manager of his party here, and yet he continues to exercise the functions of a government official under a democratic administration. His partisanship is of so pro nounced and offensive a character that he should have been immediately dismissed by a democratic administration. But the active and energetic leader of the republican party remains in office, and continues to issue his official de crees; and there is not one word said about his retention in office by those who criticise The Constitution because they affect to believe that it is unfriendly to the administration. If The Constitution had urged the retention of Buck in office, we suppose the jiggering grasshopper editors would have gone into convulsions; but he has been retained in office without any urging from any quarter, and in the face of every consideration of sound democratic policy, and the grasshopper guardians of the administration have not a word to say about it. They only go into convulsions when The Constitution presents Mr. Watson's campaign chemes.

This much may be said in conclusion, and every thoughtful democrat will enorse it—that if the salvation of democratic party in Georgia depended on the efforts of the grasshoppers who are gnawing the file of The Constitution, it would have been destroyed long

In Lynchburg, Va., on Friday, General Ju-bal A. Early, referring to the speech of Mr. John S. Wise to a republican club in New York, in which Mr. Wise said that General York, in which Mr. Wise said that General Lee had declared shortly after the close of the war, that the "first duty of every American was allegiance to the old flag and federal government," said that Mr. Wise had grossly misquoted General Lee; that General Lee had fought most heroically for the principle that a citizen's first duty was to his state, in which he firmly believed, and that he would have been the last man to have stultified himself by making such a declaration to his comrades in arms directly after the surrender.

The Chicago Sun has this remarkable item: "A few days ago a great upheaval took place in Oberlin, O., college. About forty students of both sexes were either fined or else told they had better take a little vacation. Drinking and card-playing are said to be the causes of expulsions, while the girls were charged with oplum eating and things of that nature. To add to the disgrace already established, the students covered Professor Peck's front yard with beer bottles, whisky makes and playing cards. Boys will be boys and it seems that girls will be girls, but there is something very loose in a college management too blind to see such practices, or too lax to stop them before such a disgraceful termination."

Speaking of the recent wife murders in New York, a clubman of that city says: "Any man is a fool who uses a weapon or poison to rid himself of his wife, that is, if the loyes him. Cruel words stab as effectually as a knife, and vanomous speeches are as deadly, as polson. No autopsy can discover & a woman's heart has been broken, so no autosy can convict her husband of her murder.

There are doubtiess in New York hundreds, if not thousands, of men who are as guilty of wife murder as Carlyle Harris, and yet can defy detection. No man need suffer death for wife murder, if he thus uses means the dissecting knife cannot detect. If a woman does not love her husband, her system may resist even heroic doses of the immaterial polsons I have alluded to, but even in that case, a ready tongue and evil heart may acase, a ready tongue and evil heart may accomplish wonders."

The citisens of every county should let the government take care of itself this year and give their attention to such important measures as good roads. Let our roads be made so fine that the load it now takes two horses six hours to haul can be hauled by one horse in three hours. THE PASSING THRONG

Hon. T. R. Lumsden, the popular representative from Tolbot county, has been in the city some days with his good wife, who has been sadly afflicted by the partial loss of her eyasight. She has been under treatment by some of our skilled specialists and with such good effect that she will return home in a few days able to see almost se well as before her days able to see almost as well as before her

"By the way," said Colonel Lumsden, yes. terday, 'I want to congratulate The Consti-tution upon the fight it has been making for the full recognition of the rights of Georgia in the matter of the distribution of the fed-eral offices. It is a perfectly just demand, and there ought to be no criticism of it, for we are asking only what the democratic party has been promising us for the last twenty-five years—that is a fair participation in the conduct of the government that we are called upon to obey and support. We did not go into the fight last year for the purpose of electing simply a few big officers and leav-ing the whole rank and file of the officiary, with its millions of salary and privileges, in the hands of the radicals who have had a mo-nopoly of them for the last thirty years. We want a genuine democratic government from top to bottom, or else all our talk about the need for reforming republican methods was a sham and a delusion. Turn the republicans out quick and put democrats in according to the pro rata due to each state and then only will we begin to feel that the country is truly a democratic country."
"How do the people down your way feel about the financial issue?"

"They are practically solid for the free coinage of silver and are not willing to hear talk of anything short of that. They believe that if they can get that it will result in silver going at once to par with gold, for the gold will not be able to maintain its present fictitious value, which is purely a legislative value and dependent upon the ability of the money power to keep gold as the sole measure money power to keep gold as the sole measure of money values. The democratic people out in the country believe that the Chicago platform demanded the free coinage of silver. That is the way they read it and that is the way that all of our great campaign orators put it to them last year—and if they do not get free coinage of silver they will be pretty part to feel that they have been deceived and apt to feel that they have been deceived and ask some hard questions in the next cam-paign. We want the democratic platform car-ried out in the spirit that the people received and supported it. If our leaders keep faith with the people in these matters all will be with the people in these matters well with us here in Georgia. platform last year we had comparatively lit-tle trouble in keeping the third party down in Talbot county, but if the plaform deemed and the people given some substantial relief before we have to go into another fight

Colonel Lumsden does not think there will be an overplanting of cotton in his section of the state for the reason that most of the cotton seed was sold before the price jumped up and that the people will not be able to get the seed for an extra large crop.

we will have trouble and a heap of it.

"I had a talk with Warner Hill the other day," said a gentleman from Meriwether county, "and while he said nothing positively to authorize me to say that he will be a candidate for congress in the fourth district next year, yet from what I know of the pressure that is being brought to bear upon him to that end. I do not well see how he can escape contesting for the nomination. I do know that I would support him with all my heart, for let me tell you, there are few bet ter men in Georgia, judged from the standards of pure democracy, than Warner Hill. He would make an admirable congressman and one that the whole state would be proud of before he had been in congress one term."

Colonel H. H. Middlebrooks of Sparta, who is one of the representatives in the grand lodge of the Knights of Honor, is in the city, and is a conspicuous figure about the corridors of the Markham. In speaking of affairs in the county of Hancock, he said. "We are getting along in fairly good shape and hope that the present season will be one of pros-perity to the people who have so much need of money relief. We do not know what to ex-pect from congress in the way of legislative relief, for all the statesmen and the newspapers seem to be at sea on the subject, as well as ourselves. But we do know that we want a good, honest thorough-going democratic administration from top to toe, and we want the pledges given to us in the platform of the party carried out to the letter and promptly.

"That town of Waycross, down the country, does not intend to let its light be smothered under a bushel," said Colonel Sparks, of Cincinnati, last night at the Marhkam. have painted a mammoth sign on the water tower so that everybody coming into town on the railroad is obliged to see it, in which they set forth all the advantages of the city a good scheme and could be profit by more of the lively towns in Georgla. There is no telling how much good a lit-tle spurt of enterprise like that may do for a town at the most unexpected times."

"That was a very important decision that was rendered on Monday by the supreme court," said an eminent lawyer last night. "I refer to the one which permits a note given in Georgia and psyable in New York to be attacked successfully on the ground of usury, if it bears more than the New York statutory rate of interest, which is 6 per cent. The New York statute declares that all such contracts are void and so every note given by a Georgia man to a New York firm that bears more than 6 per cent interest is really void and can be defeated in a suit brought on it in Georgia, or New York, by pleading the New York law as a defense."

Gus Morrow was in the city yesterday He does not admit the report that he is an aspirant for the mayoralty of Jonesboro, but says if the people elect him he will try and keep things in good order and help forward all movements for the progress of that capi-tal little city. He is a first-class man and will make a good legislator, and will be particularly acceptable to the military element of the state. From the drift of the talk he seems to be the coming man, but some other fellow may rise up and down him—for all things are not as they seem in politics, nowadays."

Dr. W. T. Heidt, of Forsyth, formerly the grand dictator of the Knights of Honor, was in the city yesterday and received the whole souled greetings of his brother knights. Dr. Heidt is one of the most sterling business men and worthy citizens of Georgia.

Senator A. O. Blalock, of Fayetteville, was among the distinguished legislators, of whom there were many, in the city yesterday. Colonel Blalock is a careful and wise legislator and the people of his district are happy in having so faithful a servant in the law-making department of the state. When the Aragon gets its addition of 100 more rooms and a snoke consumer for the mouth of its mammouth chimney it will be all that the owners or the neighbors could desire for it—the most delightful, elegant and altogether delectable hotel in the city.

Colonel J. L. Adderton, of Americus, is in the city. He reports matters normal in the Speaker City, except for the intense per-sonal interest that all the people take in the outcome of the Myrick case in Washington.

Colonel James B. Conyers, of Cartersville, was among yesterday's visitors to Atlanta. Colonel Conyers is a noted legal factor in the Bartow metropolis and one of that stanchold county's stanchest citizens.

Colonel M. C. Cabaniss, of Forsyth, came to the Gate City resterday and found here that hearty welcome which always is kept on the stove for him.

Marriage of Mr. Foreman and Miss Howell-Mr. Parker and Miss Mer-cier, at Augusta-Other Eventa.

The marriage of Mr. Robert L. Foreman and Miss Effic Howell, which occurred at the home of Captain E. P. Howell at West End last evening, was one of the loveliest home weddings Atlanta society has ever known. The ceremony was performed at half past 8 o'clock last night in the pres-ence of relatives and intimate friends. The handsome home was artistically decorated with delicate vines, branches of dogwood, and the lofty rooms and wide piazzas with their many tapers and lights made a picpure stately and fair.

Promptly at half past 8 o'clock, the com-

Promptly at half past 8 o'clock, the company were all arranged for the ceremony; and as the wedding march began the curtains of the drawing room were parted and the bride and groom entered. Eight little girls, Miss Howell's cousins, untied the ribbons across the way of the bridal palr who, entering, stood before the minister where a great bunch of palms was gracefully arranged. Rev. Mr. Williamson performed the ceremony, using the marriage ring.

The bride was brilliantly lovely with that dark and glowing radiance which belongs to the ideal maidens of southern climes. Her gown was of heavy, ivorywhite duchess satin, with the perfect fitting skirt made simply, with a long train. The bodice was charming in its elegance of cut and adornment. The neck was cut V and ornamented with a dainty ganiture of orange blossoms showing against soft shirred chiffon. Below this fell a deep bertha of duchess lace, which came to a point at the waistline in the back and front. The sleeves were very artistic having two puffs whose plaits were imperceptibly caught down in the middle of the sleeve. The bridal veil that threw a soft halo about her lovely figure was caught to her nut-brown, wavy stresses by a half sleeve. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Foreman received the hearty and sincere congratulations of their friends. A delicious supper was served in the two supper rooms. One table was set apart for the bride and groom and their most intimate friends. This was entirely adorned in white, the centerpiece being of Easter lilies and roses. Among the relatives who were present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Foreman of Washington; Mr and Mrs. Barnett Irvin. of Washington; Mr and Mrs. Harnett Irvin. of Washington, and Mr. Jim Howell, of Chattanooga.

At 11 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Foreman bade adden to their friends and departed for their wedding journey to New Orleans, and from there they go to New York.

A happler and more harmonious marriage was never made than that of these two people. They are congernal in tastes and dispositions, and both of them possess those beautiful qualities which go toward the making of a perfect home life, full of sweet domesticity, of noble ambition and progressive, broad intellectuality. Miss Howell is a rare and charming girl. She is unusually bright and intellectual and is possessed of those sweet, domestic, womanly traits which make a woman absolutely adorable.

and kept them more faithful and devoted than has she.

Mr. Foreman came to Atlanta several years ago from Washington, his native home, after graduating at the University of Georgia, where he had accepted the advantages of college education in a way which won him high honors. He entered the insurance business here and by his fine ability and steadfasts as in his work he has won a splendid position in his chosen vocation. Socially he has been one of the most popular men in Atlanta society.

TRINITY'S REVIVAL.

an Earnest Sermon by Rev. Dr. Lewis, the Pastor.

There was a very earnest company of people in attendance upon the revival services at Trinity church last evening.

After the singing and several very impressive, appealing prayers, Dr. Lewis preached a strong and suggestive sermon, concerning the ministry of Andrew, who brought Simon Peter, his brother, to Christ.

Dr. Lewis put clear emphasis upon the emphasis upon the great truth that zeal for the salvation of sinners springs from self-conscious salva-

Dr. Lewis put clear emphasis upon the great truth that zeal for the salvation of sinners springs from self-conscious salvation. The man who knows that he himself has found the Savior is the one who is impelled irresistibly to desire the salvation of those who are left behind in sin. An accepted man goes out to bring others to the beloved One, and an accepted church is one that is on fire for the bringing of sinners to the Lord. That man who is not trying to bring others to Jesus needs to be brought to Jesus himself. If he ever knew the Lord he has backslidden from Him. The church that is cold, pulseless and idle in the work of soul-saving needs to be brought to Christ and restored to the spirit of its first love.

Dr. Lewis also spoke with fervor upon the grand results that often come from such work as Andrew's. The bringing of Peter to Jesus was fraught with all the tremendous after-works of that great apostle. So we bring men to Christ and the possibilities of the conversions thus made cannot be anticipated or measured. What a splendid work it was when some man, fifty years ago, brought Edward E. Rawson, whom we honored in his glorious Christian life and tenderly buried away today, to Jesus and to that long ministry of his gentle and faithful life?

The sermon was plain, strong and full of cloquent suggestion. If the people follow the earnest leadership of Dr. Lewis they will soon be in the midst of a sweeping work of grace and redemption. The meeting will continue from night to night idefinitely.

Ryan, who has the reputation of being one of the most brilliant fielders in the country, may be in the game. Ryan is the man who swore he would not sign a contract with the Chicago team unless he was given every dollar he asked for. President Hart declined to come to Ryan's terms, and for a long time the ball loving people of Chicago were kept on their anxious seat. But Ryan finally signed some kind of a contract, and came right on to Atlanta But Ryan finally signed some kind of a contract, and came right on to Atlanta where his team was at work. He came in Sunday last, and since his arrival has been at work every day but has not been in a game. In view of the fact that Ryan was once on the Columbus team, the people of this section of the world are anxious to see him try his hand in the outfield, where it is said be has no superior. is said he has n The game this afternoon will be one worth

Montgomery Wins Again.

Birmingham, Ala., April 12.—(Special.) Montgomery won today's game by a score of 9 to 4.

Montgomery won today's game by a score of 9 to 4.

Birmingham had Southard, her weakest pitcher, in the box and the visitors pounded him for two home runs, one three-bagger, four two-base hits and eleven singles. The two home runs were made in the eighth inning. About 700 were in attendance.

The following is the score:

Mobile, Ala., April 12.—(Special.)—
Frank Donnelly toyed with the alleged sluggers from New Orleans today letting them down with four hits. Luby, on the other hand, was pounded all over the lot; the locals making basehits at will. Mills led the batting, getting three singles and a double. Baldwin was injured in the fourth and retired from the game.

Levis again umpired an impartial game. The following is the Score:

Augusta Three Straights.

Macon, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—Augusta won again this afternoon from Macon by a score of 11 to 3, thus making three straights for Augusta. For six innings the game was a beautiful one and some close and brilliant plays were made. At the end of the sixth inning the score stood 2 to 1 in favor of Augusta and it seemed to be anybody's game. Up to this time Macon had not mide an error. In the seventh inning Boland, of Macon, made a beautiful three-base hit, sending Merrit home and tying the score, Boland then came in on Gillen's hit and put Macon one shead. The grand stand went wild and victory appeared to be Macon's, but Augusta scored four runs this inning. In the eighth inning Macon made a goose egg and went to pieces in the field. Augusta scored five runs this inning, had three men on bases and only one man out when the game was called on account of rain and approaching darkness.

The prettlest catch of the game was by Denny, of Augusta, who made a one-handed jumping catch of McGuirk's hit. In the third inning German and Everett, of Augusta, each made a lovely three-base hit, Everett's hit caused the wore to be tied. In the fourth inning Welch relieved Hughey, of Macon, in the box, Soore by Innings;

Charleston, S. C., April 12.—(Special.)—Charleston wound up the Chattanooga series today by wresting another hard-fought victory from the visitors. Gayle and Sugden officiated for the locals and Nevins and Selbach for the visitors, each club having tried all of the three pitchers during the series. The only feature of the game was the marked increase in the error column.

The home team will jump on the Gate City-hustlers tomorrow. Following is the summary:

The game was one sided but it was an interesting contest from the start to the finish and was seen by the smallest crowd that has been out this season.

Kid McGill was given the first punishment he has received this year, but he stood it like a man and left the box only when requested to do so. Mauck, who took his place, was hit harder than the Kid and gave way to McGinnis, who did the best work of the game. The Pittsburg team had on batting clothes and knocked the ball at will. Singles, doubles, triples and home runs came when they were most needed and they made the Pittsburg score run away up. Ehret, who was in the box for the Pittsburgs, pitched a fine game of ball, only one hit being made off of him up to the sixth inning. Before that inning began, the Pittsburgs had crossed the plate ten times and the game was practically won. Ehret saw this and let down in his work rather than take any chances of hurting has arm. It was then that the Chicagos got in their stick work, the best feature of which was the home run hit of Decker's in the seventh inning.

The same clubs will play again this afternoon.

Raleigh, N. C., April 12.—(Special.)—
There was great interest in the game of baseball here today between the teams of the University of Vermont and the University of North Carolina. The game was one of the best and most exciting ever played here. The score was, Vermont, 2; North Carolina, 1. Only three errors were made, two being by the Vermonters. Another game will be played at the university tomorrow.

RESCUED FROM SHAME.

A Young Woman, Led Astray Through a Maa's Perfidy, Is Saved. A youg woman with a tale of woe, the old, familiar story of a young girl's trust, and a man's perfidy, was a caller at police headquarters yesterday. She told her story. She had trusted a man, he had made fair promises to her, she had believed him. He had lured her from home to this city; here she had learned that he had proved false. He had introduced her into a house of corrupt morals, and she had drifted, out of sheer necessity and despair, into a wretched, miserable life. A few days of it has driven her to wildness and desperation. Unable to stand it longer she threw herself upon the mercy of the police to be rescued. She told her story to Chief Connolly and asked that he send her to her home. He made an effort to sewer temporary shelts. made an effort to secure temporary shelter for her in a house of refuge, but failing in this, she was sent last night to a boarding house in the city, where she will be kept until arrangements can be made to send her back home.

She is going back home to lead an honest life, she said, and begged that her name be withheld from publication.

The incessant accession of small groups soon swelled the crowd until it pushed out into the park and up and down the Rue Royale. The parliamentary building had already here arounded by building had already been surrounded by unmounted police. As the crowd became unmounted police. As the crowd became more demonstrative a squadron of police was called out and held ready to charge. At 4 o'clock the workingmen near the parliamentary building raised a shout for universal suffrage and made a rush to break the police fine. The police were driven back and the mob tried to push up the steps. The mounted reserves charged with drawn swords. The mob met them with repeated volleys of stones, but eventually was forced back and partly dispersed. ually was forced back and partly dispersed In the conflict several policemen were struck with stones on the head and many rioters were cut or trampled. Repeated dis-turbances followed in the Rue Lovain be-tween the Palais de la Nation and the Boulevard du Regent. As often as they were dispersed by the police the rioters tried to reassemble and fight back with stones.

Around the parliamentary building fifteen men were arrested. Serious disturb-ances in other parts of the city were also followed by arrests.

THE ARGUMENT BEGUN. In the Behring Sea Court of Arbitration in Paris.

Paris, April 12.—While opening the Behring sea court of arbitration today the president, Baron de Courcelles announced that the court had decided not to admit the British supplementary report for the present. The president added that this decision was without prejudice to the right of counsel to introduce the report in pleadings by word of mouth. The president further announced that the tribunal had decided to adjourn the demand of the United States for the rejection of portions of the British counter case. Paris.

to adjourn the demand of the United States for the rejection of portions of the British counter case.

Sir Charles Russell stated that it had been agreed that the American counsel should first address the courf, notwith standing the fact that Great Britain was the complainant in the proceedings.

James C. Carter and Fred R. Coudert, counsel for the United States, would deliver the opening addresses and Sir Richard C. Webster, C. Robinson and Sir Charles Russell would follow for Great Britain. The Hon. E. J. Phelps would then close in behalf of the United States.

The president suggested that the counsel should argue the question of rights apart from the question of regulations.

Mr. J. C. Carter then proceeded to address the court. He reviewed the history of the sealing industry and mentioned that Russia had prohibited the slaughter of female seals. He contended that the seals were bestowed by providence on all mankind. It was the duty of the American government to prevent the extermination of the seals and, therefore, the United States had re-enacted the Russian regulations for the protection of the seals and had arrested the Canadian poachers because it was impossible to allow any nation to destroy indiscriminately the gift of providence.

Mr. Carter read the diplomatic communi-tion to destroy indiscriminately the gift of providence.

Mr. Carter read the diplomatic communications which had forced the seizure of vessels accused of poaching. Mr. Carter continued his speech during the afternoon, devoting himself to a review of the negotiations between President Harrison's administration and Great Britain on the subject of the seal fisheries. Mr. Carter's address will probably last for a fortnight. Senator Morgan remarked today to the Associated Press correspondent that Mr. Carter was making a concise and splendid argument, which did great credit to the United States.

United States Agent Foster said in an argument, which did great credit to the United States.

United States Agent Foster said in an interview today that the decision of the court of arbitration refusing for the present to admit the British supplementary report substantially sustains the American interpretation of the treaty of arbitration in the contention that additional evidence cannot properly be laid before the tribunal. The decision, Mr. Foster adds, determines that the court can rank as argument or criticism, but is not pertinent as printed evidence to printed argument provided for in the treaty.

The police are going to have their library, that is assured. Books continue to come in, and the names of those sending them are being kept and will be furnished for publication in a few days.

There was a social reunion of the members of the First Methodist church last night which was attended by over three hundred persons. The party was entertained by music and singing and refreshments were served by the ladies.

A movement is on foot to give a series of concerts by local talents during the summer. Judge Newsome was greatly pleased by his reception Tuesday night at the entertainment given for the benefit of the ushurs of DeGive's opera house and has consented to assist in the series if the programme is made up of musicians of ability. He thinks of adding something new to his repertory.

THE NEW YORK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

NEW YORK, April 12.—The stock market was kept in a feverish and unsettled condition early in the day by a heavy selling movement in Sugar from 101 1-2 down to 100 1-4. And later in Distilling and Cattle Feeding from 11-2 down to 28 1-4. Pacific Mail declined 21-2 and National Cordage 1 3-4 for the common and 2 1-2 for the preferred, but in a majority of instances the losses are confined within a range of 1-4@1 per cent. The fined within a range of 14@1 per cent. The talk about heavy shipments of gold by the steamers sailing for Europe late in the week talk about heavy shipments of gold by the steamers salling for Europe late in the week had an adverse influence and induced the bears to make several decided demonstrations against the market. The pressure against sugar was unaccompanied by any unfavorable rumors against the property, but in the case of Distilling and Cattle Feeding, the drop was accelerated by reports of an intended issue of $10,000,000 bonds by the company, and by others to the effect that the annual statement would be discouraging to stockholders. The weakness of the Parcife Mail was attributed to stories which were subsequently denied, that a receivership was imminent as the day drew to a close there was a marked change in the temper of the speculation and under brisk purchases for the long account as well as to cover short contracts, a general advance ensued. Pullman rose from 4: to 206, Sugar, 3:34 to 104; Manhattan, 2:1-2 to 163:1-2; National Lead, 2:3-8 to 42; National Cordage, 2 to 67; Lake Shore, 2 to 133, and Cinclunati, Cleveland and Chicago and St. Louis, 1:7-8 to 50:7-8. The buying of these shares was characterized by a good deal of confidence, and altogether a much better feeling prevailed. The indications are that leading operators, who recently sold out, were again buying, stimulated the demand from the traders on the floor. The market left of strong at or near the best figures of the day. Sales, 248,000; shares including 4,400 shares of Richmond Terminal.

Railway bounds were irregular. The sales were $1,017,000.

J. S. Bache & Co.'s Stock Letter. By Private Wire to B. W. Martin. Manager.

NEW YORK, April 12.—London dull and featureless. Interest centered today in Sugar and Whisky. In the former the bears kept be putting out short stock, but afterwards the tables were turned on them and the stock the tables were turned on them and the stock shot up over 3 per cent. The short Interest that has been created in the last few days was such as to yield a good profit to the pool that is working it and we think that the bears will have to pay higher prices for it before they can cover their contracts. Distilley and Cattle Feed acted stubbornly during the morning, but after that sold off quickly and a good deal of long stock came out, as people preferred to see what they would do at the meeting today. The directors sat in Peoria at noon, but at the time of closing the board nothing was known as to the rebuit of the meeting, still rumor says the statement will show $1,200,000 cash on hand and that bonds will have to be issued so as to meet the rebate vouchers, of which a big amount are outstanding. One thing is sure, and that is that the directors will make the shawing as poor as possible, as a number of them are fairly short of the stock, hoping to cover their contracts when this statement is issued. The general market was quite satisfactory to the bulls. The same people that attacked Lead from 36 down, and who had to take a 5 per cent loss, were again active in selling the stock today, but the same closed materially higher. We look for a slow but steady improvement in the market, although some gold will likely go out on Saturday.

Rubbard. Price 2 Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, April 12—Liverpool opened this morning at an advance of from 263-64d, which was quickly lost, and the market seems to have settled into a state of semi-panic under reports of rains in Texas cent from the south, and declined to the lowest point touched this season. Our cables state that the recent failures in Liverpool have shaken confidence, and the decline of 23 per bale that has occurred in that market within the last four days has been brought about by that uneasy feeling intensified by the reports of rain-fall in Texas. These reports of rains in Texas come to us via New Orleans, and consist of rains reported at Dallas, Paris, Albany, Beaumond and Waco. The government, however, in the official report does not condrm these dispatches, giving the rainfall at Galveston at .01 inch, and the government weather observer at Galveston, we are told by our correspondents, states that there has been no rain or any prospect of rain throughout the central and southern portion of that state, where it is badly needed. The decline in Liverpool was a surprise to the trade, as an advance had been confidently excepted at the method of the property of the market the central conditions and advance had been confidently excepted at the method of state, where it is badly needed. The decline in Liverpool was a surprise to the trade, as an advance had been confidently expected on the close of the market yesterday, and the pressure to sell his caused a decline here ranging from 13(2)1 points. Strangely to relate the decline has been principally upon the inside position, and not upon the more distant deliveries, where the news of rain should have caused greater weakness. While the temper of the market remains very bearish, and can see no favorable opportunities for a change, the market has resisted the influence of the decline in Liverpool today with more tenacity than for over a week. Receipts at the ports today are light, most of which are received at Savannah and Charleston—overland cotton from the interior stocks of Alabama and Memphis. It should be distinctly noted that the temper of the south is in favor of a further decline in the price of cotton, and that all information of a favorable character to the crop, or of an extension of the area to be devoted to cotton, is quickly transmitted to this and the foreign markets. Locally the more area to be devoted to cotton, is quickly transmitted to this and the foreign markets. Locally the more conservative merchants are disposed to act cautiously and regard the situation as justifying investments in cotton at present prices. Although the report of the government weather observer at Galveston is usually accepted as official, dispatches were shown on the exchange this afternoon from that point stating that rains had fallen over Texas, and on this the market closed steady at about the lowest point of the day. J. S. Bache & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

By Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager.

NEW YORK, April 12—Liverpool this morning was very much of a disappointment to the bulls, as it showed a weak tone in the face of our very firm closing of the previous night. The decline there was supposed to be caused by reports of rains, which are much needed in the south. Telegrams from there only report local showers, and most of the rains were not in the option districts. However, the talk of these rains gave fresh encouragement to the local bears, who put out fresh lines. It is early yet to gauge the prospects of the crop, which up to the presentare not very favoraof the crop, which up to the present are not very favora-ble. The immediate future depends on crop advices rom the south. We think, however, cotton cheap at present prices and a purchase on breaks.

THE UNICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Previsions.

CHICAGO, April 12 — While May wheat opened higher this morning, there was no such excitement as many expected, and the figures made at the start did not hold. The position of Pardridge on the market was the all-important theme of discussion, and there was much speculation as to whether he would surrender or carry on the apparently hopeless fight. He gave no sign of capitulation, and was busy margining his trades during the session, but when the board adjourned he gave it out in an interview that the deal was over so far as he was concerned. He said he had lost a half million and had become done up temporarily, but he had millions in reserve, and would yet get even with those who had apparently downed him. The first bid for May was 96c, made by the clique no doubt to fix a higher point for margin calling. The July option was affected by the natural buil news, but closed only 3c higher. Crop reporters sent in messages saytion was affected by the natural bull news, but closed only $\frac{1}{2}$ C higher. Crop reporters sent in messages saying that the weather cannot save the wheat in many sections; that the damage done is irreparable. New York messages at noon reported export sales yesterday and this morning of 130 beat loads, or over 13,000,000 bushels of wheat. The receipts of 437 cars here for the day and the easier cables would naturally be against the market.

against the market, Corn was fairly active. The market was weak early, Corn was fairly active. The market was weak early, and in the last half of the session considerable firmness was developed. The receipts were vory light, and amounted to only 68 cars, of which 21 were for contract grade. The early drop brought in numerous shorts who, in taking their profits, worked in concert with those who seized the same opportunity to buy some for investment. The closing prices were 4c higher.

investment. The closing prices were %c higher.

The oats market was moderately active and weaker early, but railled again after about an hour, and the close was about %c higher. The disposition at the start was to sell, and the market declined %c. There were no more buying orders until the shorts began to buy at the bottom price, and the advance in corn accounted for the advance.

Hog receipts were 4,000 over yesterday's estimate, but the price of provisions ignored both that fact and the further consideration that prices of hogs were from 13@20c lower. A late dispatch reduced the day's arrivals of hogs from 23,000, as first given, to 21,000, and a recovery of 80 of the earlier decline in their prices was curiously enough mentioned as the reason for some of the improvement in provisions. The market was juggled and twisted to meet the views of the bull clique, who are still credited with having full control of the market. The day's business resulted in a big advance.
Pardridge was credited with having bought in a considerable quantity of short September lard. Pork gained 35@42%, lard 25@35c and ribs 21,2625c.
The leading futures ranged as follows in Chicago today.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Foreign markets appear about as unsettled as our own. Paris is higher; Liverpool a shade lower. Bradstreets is out with a bearish report claiming that the stock in Europe and affont increased 2,840,000 bashels for the week. His report of the decrease in the available supply of 2,524,000 bushels we think is about 2,000,000 short of the actual facts, as there were fully 4,000,000, bushels decrease in the northwest elevators alone last week. There is one warehouse in Miwaukes where Bradstreets continues to quote 100,000 bushels and where there is nothing, having all been used up by the miliers and the 25,000 bushels of May wheat that

The Funeral of Mr. B. B. Rawson

FROM TRINITY METHODIST CHURCH.

The Funeral of Colonel W. P. Orme fro 8t Philip's Church Yesterday After-noon-It Was Largelys Attended.

The funeral of Mr. E. E. Rawson occurred from Trinity Methodist church yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

It was a notable gathering of the business men and pioneer citizens of Atlanta and the saurch, which is the largest one in the city, was crowded to its utmost capacity.

The pulpit was beautifully clothed in a raiment of white flowers and many ornamental designs expressive of the Christian hope in which he had passed from the scenes of earth to enter upon the enjoyment of a blessed and blissful immortality, were visible from the remotest point of the auditorium.

The casket was borne along the aisle by the following gentlemen, all of whom were intimate friends of Mr. Kawson: Messra-W. F. Slatom Robert J. Lowry, D. A. Beatie, Judge Howard Van Epps, G. T. Dodd, W. L. Peel, E. W. Martin and Judge R. T. Dorsey. A beautiful selection was rendered by the organist as the funeral recognition entered the door of the church procession entered the door of the church. In addition to the large crowd of citizens generally who occupied the body of the rhurch, there were delegations from several organizations of which Mr. Rawson was a brganizations of which Mr. Rawson was a member.

There was a large attendance of the pioneer citizens of Atlanta who were present as the representatives of the Pioneer Society. The members of the city council, headed by Mayor Goodwin, were also present as a tribute of respect to the memory of one who had been an active member of that body in years past and who had devoted much of his time and thought to the welfare of the city. Several members of the board of education of the public schools of Atlanta attended the funeral as a recognition of his services as a member of that important body.

The honorary Escort.

The honorary escort was made up of prominent citizens and of the intimate friends of Mr. Rawson, who had been associated with him in business circles and in the work of the church. The escort consisted of the following gentlemen; G. W. Adair, E. W. Marsh, A. D. Adair, N. J. Hammond, Judge Logan E. Bieckley, W. P. Pattillo, J. H. Porter, F. M. Coker, E. Andrews, Judge John Erskine, W. D. Ellis, M. C. Kiser, S. B. Hoyt, T. B. Neal, A. J. Shropshire, W. J. Garrett, J. W. Rucker, W. P. Imman, Dr. A. W. Calhoun, Joseph Hirsch, Paul Romare, J. W. English, Dr. H. P. Cooper, Dr. W. S. Kendrick, W. A. Hemphill, George Hillyer, John A. Smith, Judge W. L. Calhoun, W. M. Middlebrooks, W. H. Brotherton and John E. Williams.

In the Pulpit.

The following ministers occupied the pulpit and conducted the services. Rev. Walker Lewis, the pastor of the church; Rev. C. A. Evans, a life long friend of Mr. Rawson, who preached the sermon; Rev. John W. Heidt, the presiding elder, and Rev. T. R. Kendall, the pastor of Grace church.

The services throughout were solemn and impressive and at the same time were characterized by that modest simplicity which was one of the striking characteristics of the deceased. The musical selections were appropriate, while the prayers which were offered were fervent invocations to heaven for consolation to the afflicted hearts.

The sermon was one of tender enlogy and beautiful illustration from the life and public services of Mr. Rawson. Inspired by long friendship and an intimate knowledge of the worth of the deceased, the remarks of General Evans were apposite and interesting as well as full of consolation and sympathy to those present in the great loss which they had sustained.

The procession which followed the remains to the cemetery was unusually long. After a few simple exercises at the grave the services in honor of this upright citizen were concluded and he was left to sleep the sleep of eternity in beautiful Oakland.

It Occurred from St. Philip's Church Yesterday Afternoon, at 4:30 O'Clock.

All that was mortal of Colonel W. P. Orme was yesterday afternoon committed to the sod of Oakland cemetery.

The funeral services were held at St. Philip's church at 4:30 O'clock, and were largely attended. Colonel Orme was at one time a vestryman of the church, and was actively identified with the growth and Christian work of that denomination.

Although Colonel Orme was not at the time of his death a resident of this city, he had many friends and acquaintances in Atlanta who were profoundly attached to him by reason of his lofty character and his magnetic personality. He was a man of exalted ideas of life and conduct, and his career throughout was a beautiful and manly exemplification of his creed.

As the home of his family, which has been identified with the city ever since the war, it was deemed proper that Colonel Orme should sleep his last sleep in Oakland cemetery, in easy reach of the scenes in which the most stirring and active part of his life was spent.

The services at the church yesterday afternoon were solemn and impressive, and were conducted by Dr. Tupper, after the beautiful manner of the Episcopal church. Appropriate songs were sung and the music by the choir was especially sweet and consoling to the friends of the deceased.

Many beautiful flowers, emblomatic of the lofty esteem in which he was held and also indicative of the hope in which he fell asleep, were placed upon the casket and adorned the chancel of the sanctuary.

The following gentlemen constituted the escort: Judge Logan E. Bleckley, Colonel N. J. Hammond, Judge S. B. Hoyt, Colonel John T. Henderson, Colonel James R. Wylie, Mr. Thomas M. Clarke, Mr. W. Rhode Hill, Dr. J. F. Alexander, Colonel George W. Adair Mr. R. M. Farrar, Mr. Albert Cox, Mr. E. P. Black, Mr. E. A. Werner, Judge W. L. Calhoun, Mr. Thomas E. Walker, Mr. J. C. Kirkpatrick and Mr. H. Y. Snow.

FUNERAL OF MR. BROWN.

FUNERAL OF MR. BROWN.

The Dead Engineer Laid to Best in Oakland Cemetery.

The funeral of Elijah Brown, the engineer who lost his life at his post of duty last Tuesday moraing, took place yesterday afternooh at 4 o'clock from the family residence, No. 137 Crew street.

Rev. Hearty McDonald, of the Second Baptist thurch, conducted the brief funeral services. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, of which the deceased was a prominent member, then took charge. The remains were borne from the house and placed in the funeral car and the long, solamn procession wended its way to beautiful Oakland, where all that was mortal of the brave engineer was laid to rest in the quiet city of the dead.

The casket was covered with beautiful flowers and many emblematic pieces were brought by comrades and friends. A brother from New York arrived just in time for the funeral cedemonies. It was an affecting scene to witness the aged father and nother, the brothers and sisters, the heart-broken wife with her little children gathered about the form, cold in death, swaying under the mighty burden of grief, while anon sobs would burst from hearts too full to be restrained. Tears were brushed from the cheeks of many strong men who, side by side with their dead comrade, had for years braved the dangers of the rail.

Mr. Brown was a model engineer, a trusted employe, a true frater in the brotherhood, a faithful sun, and a staderly devoted husband and father. He heaves be-

Chancellor John A. Foster by the chancery court of Alabama.

John Arthur Foster was born November 11, 1828, at Monticello, Jasper county, Georgia. He was graduated in August, 1847, at the University of Alabama; early in the fifties he became president of the Southern Female college at LaGrange, Ga. He was admitted to the bar by the supreme court of Alabama at Montgomery, January 9. 1859, and commenced practice soon after at Clayton, Ala., being associated with the Hon. Jere N. Williams, the present chancellor, under the firm name of Williams & Foster. In 1861 he was elected justice of the peace, which office he resigned to enter the confederate service in August, 1861, as captain of Company G. Twenty-ninth regiment of Alabama volunteers. He served in that capacity until captured at Nashville on the 15th of December, 1864, from which time he was held as a prisoner of war at Johnson's island until his release and return home in June, 1865. While in the confederate service he was appointed as register in chancery, but did not enter upon the duties of the office until reappointed in 1866. After the close of the war he was engaged in the practice of the law for a short time with the Hon. L. M. Lane, and subsequently with his son, J. Webb Foster.

He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875; and a member of the legislature in 1876, and during the session of 1878-9. Upon his election to the legislature in 1878, he resigned the position of register in chancery. In August, 1880, he was elected chancellor of the southern chancery division, then composed of twenty-two counties; he was reelected chancellor in 1886 and again in 1892. He was one of the trustees of the University of Alabama from 1876 to 1889, when he resigned. The degree of L.L.D. was conferred upon him by the A. & M. college in 1883. He died at his home af Clayton, Ala., on Saturday the 28th of January 1893, at 7 o'clock in the morning. He was twice married—in 1849 to Miss Mary Webb who died in 1857. In 1858 he was married to Miss Mary Borders,

The Circulation of the Blood.

I had the pleasure of hearing Dr. Roy's lecture on the circulation of the blood, to the railroad men at their room on Wall street Tuesday night, April 11th. It was a very instructive lecture. You could almost see the red blood flying from an artery and the dark blood from a vein. His instructions in cases of emergency were so well given that any of his hearers would know how to arrest bleeding in case of an accident. How much more profitable it is to hear such a lecture on reality than to go to a theater and seeing and hearing men and women trying to ape somebody.

SATISFY

The offer made by us to guarantee a cure or refund the money is genuine and without reserve, the only exception being in desperately severe or incurable cases. This is no more than fair. The fact that many advertising doctors claim to cure all diseases does not make it so. The sensible public know very well that certain diseases in advanced stages are incurable and the assertion that they are does not carry any weight and the person or persons making such a statement is set down as a quack and impostor. We know that we give the latest and most scientific treatment for diseases in our specialty and the offer we make is one that proves to the people what we can do and what we claim. YOUR INSPECTION INVITED. Jeweler, 28 1-2 Whitehall St. Up Stairs. THE DOBBS-MASHBURN TRIAL.

The Report of the Committee, Which Wa Unsaimously Adopted by the Meth-odist Church on Sunday Last.

The report of the committee from the Car-tersville Methodist church in the Dobbs-Mashburn bucket letter trial was too long to Mashburn bucket letter trial was too long to be inserted in Tuesday's Constitution and was crowded out by other matter. We then published the statement of the presiding elder, who presided as judge, and of the committee who acted as the jury.

The report which follows gogs fully into the facts and makes interesting reading. The personnel of the committee includes the president of the First National bank, three law-ident of the First National bank, three inw-yers of the Cartersville bar, two of the larg-est planters in the county, a United States commissioner, the two principal iron ore men of Bartow county, one of the aldermen of the town, merchants and others. The report was unanimously adopted by the church on Sun-day last, as we are informed, by a rising

It is as follows:

To the Members of the Cartersville Methodist Episcopal Church, South—The understaned were appointed by the presiding eider of the Rome district as a committee to prepare and submit to this church such an expression and such resolutions as are appropriate and just, both to the church and to its pastor, upon the charge that its pastor, Rev. J. H. Mashburn, was the author of certain anonymous communications, and upon the trial of that charge before an investigating committee and the events consequent thereon.

We approach this task with deep regret action in the matter.

Comparatively few of our members heard the trial. The public generally is unfamiliar with the truth of the transaction.

None of the trial committee were members of this church, nor have we as a church given any formal expression of our feelings towards our pastor, nor our opinion of this controversy, nor of the conduct of the principal controversy, nor of the conduct of the principal controvers.

towards our pastor, nor our opinion of this controversy, nor of the conduct of the principal actors in it.

To do so would have been unnecessary had the matter been confined to this locality, as we reasonably hoped it would be, but since the Accuser has, first, within a few days after the trial, submitted himself to an interview published in The Atlanta Constitution, attempting to justify his conduct and unwarrantably reflecting upon the ecclesiastical court which tried the case, and has again, more recently, published over his own sibnature a lengthy card in the same paper, thus giving increased against one who had been unanimously acquitted; we feel that our continued silence would be injustice—almost criminal—both to the pastor and to the body at large of that great church of whose doctrines he is an expounder and defender.

When the honor of the church in thus indirectly sought to be besmirched by persistent repetitions of infamous charges against its pastor, after a most exhaustive trial and a complete vindication, of that pastor has been had, then silence and patience ceased to be virtues and all good men are called upon to uphold the innocent and rebuke the guility.

To review the case, to let the public know the facts as they appeared in evidence; to express the contempt which any fair mind must feel after knowing the suppression of truth, the perversion of facts, and the methods which have characterized this persecution; to right the injured and to let the shame rest where it of right belongs, is the purpose of this report.

We wish Christians of all denominations where it of right belongs, is the purpose of this report.

We wish Christians of all denominations to understand that we have not been at any time, nor are we now, moved by any spirit of antagonism to the Baptist church or its members. We are profoundly grateful for the good this church has done in the world. We believe it is a true church of Christ; we recognize its vigorous efforts toward christianizing the world; we respect and esteem its ministry as a body and its membership at large. We trust and believe that no one will, for a moment, suppose that we have for our Baptist brethren at large other feelings than those of affectionate Christian regard.

Without Excuse or Justification,

Without Excuse or Justification, the harmony between the religious denomina-tions which had existed to a marked degree in Cartersville has been sought to be degation in the city, was the author of characteristic annonymous communications.

The Person who first whispered this charge claimed to have received the first of these anonymous communications. This claim is not substantiated by any other evidence. This Person alleges that he received it at the post-office, read it while walking a distance of thirty or forty steps and then tore it up and them the places away; and yet, on the trial threw the pieces away; and yet, on the trial seven months afterwards, pretends to repeat the contents verbatim. This he alleges was in June. This Person alleges further that on his bed that night, in the dark, he saw with his mind's eye a resemblance between the anonymous communication which he had read and destroyed, and the "date line" of a friendly note he alleges he had received from Brother Mashburn some time before, and which "date line" he had filed away and preserved. This Person alleges that there then arose in his mind a "vague nebulous suspicion," which was caused by reason of the fact that the destroyed note referred to a remark that this Person had made last in the presence of Mr. Mashburn (which he admits having said to others) and which remark was a criticism of the mental caliber of the Rev. Dr. Bachman, a holy and devout man.

received in the town, and this Person solemnly averred in his evidence, that before he saw any other cards or letter—that within ten days from the time he says he received it—and without additional proof he became convinced of Mashburn's authorship.

This Person explained the facility with which he had arrived at this state of conviction by averring in his evidence before the investigating committee that, prior to receiving his anonymous letter, he had "sized up Mashburn; had found him to be a three-cent man, a narrow and contracted fellow; and, though modestly disclaiming any prophetic inspiration knew him to be just such a man as would write anonymous letters. This Person states that his feelings for Mr. Mashburn at that time were of the kindest character.

Anonymous communication No. 2, was addressed to Mr. Crosby. It was sought out and obtained by this Person. This card No. 2 was offensive to Mr. Crosby, and this Person told Mr. Crosby confidentially that Mr. Mashburn was its author. It was likewise offensive to Captain Peacock, whose name was mentioned in it. This Person saw Captain Peacock and was first to tell him confidentially that Rev. Mr. Mashburn was its author. This his own evidence shows; and further, that up to this time this Person was maintaining the most pleasant and smilling relations with the gentleman he was in private assaulting.

Card No. 3, was addressed to Mrs. John T. Norris. It was offensive both to Mr. and Mrs. Norris. We learn from his own evidence that this person knew the next day after its reception that this card had been written and received (saying that Mrs. S. P. Jones told him; though Mrs. Jones instantly defield this statement) and he straighway sought and found Mr. Norris, and was the first tell him (and this, too, in confidence) without having seen the card, that the Rev. Mr. Mashburn wrote it at the Rev. Mr. Mashburn wrote it. At first opportunity he says that he likewise gave Mrs. Norris the same informati

"Brother Mashburn." This Person stuted that his feelings and friendship for Mr. Mashburn were still of the kindest character.
Anonymous communication No. 4 was addressed and malied to Miss Annie Jones.
This Person, in his evidence before the committee, stated that, without seeing the note singe it was received by Miss Jones and professing to have never seen it before, he described it to her most fully and with remarkable distinctness and precision and told her he knew who wrote it. This Person was the first to tell the father and mother of Miss Jones (not to be repeated) that their pastor, Rev. Mr. Mashburn, was the author of this offensive note to kheir danghter.

This Person's evidence shows that he was duct for proof of his guar. That high, for the first time, Mr. Mashburn hears that this Person pretends to suspect him. He readily consents to a meeting. This Person goes to the meeting expecting to spring the charge on Mr. Mashburn, without his having heard of his suspicion, and avows his "indignation and surprise" at learning that the inhuman scheme that he proposed had not been carried out, and that Mr. Mashburn had been informed of the object of the meeting.

At this meeting the charge was made by this Person. Mr. Mashburn meets it with such frank, manly and impassioned denial as brings Captain Peacock (a deacon in this Person's church) to his feet with an expression of the highest confidence in Mashburn's innocence, an apology for the suspicion and the offer to Mashburn of his hand. This Person also rises and expresses a regret that he cannot go quite so far as Captain Peacock, but then and there agreed to bury the matter in oblivion. That the matter should rest and be formotten and never more be agitated, was the solemn agreement of all persons present; and in token of his sincerity and good faith, this Person gave Mr. Mashburn his right hand in friendly grasp.

According to his own evidence this Person, that day, before the sun sank, after having so pledged his hand, took, Mr. Peacock saide and told him he feared he had been a little hasty in exculpating Mashburn: asked him to re-examine the evidence and went over the matter with him again, endeavoring to resurrect the suspicion in Mr. Peacock's mind of Mr. Mashburn's cuilt. On the following day he went to Mr. John T. Norris and made similar statements to him, and on the some day repeated the same to Mrs. Norris and made similar statements to him, and on the some day repeated the same to Mrs. Norris and made similar statements to him, and on the same day repeated the same to Mrs. Norris and made similar statements to him, and on the same day repeated the same to Mrs. Norris and made similar statements to him, and on the same day repeated the same to Mrs.

is gathered from his own evidence, and if he be Palse to His Own Plighted Word, in what other statement may we confide?

The evidence shows this Person claims to be an expert with the pen. This Person is not a Georgaam—but a new comer. This Person is a follower, in name, of Him who said "Judge not, lest ye be judged."

"A manghty person, a wicked man, walketh with a froward month; he winketh his cyes, he speaketh with his feet; he teacheth with his fingers, frowardness is in his heart; he deviseth mischief continually; he soweth discord. These sixth things doth the Lord hate; yea, seven are an abomination unto Him; a proud look, a lying tongue and hands that shed innocent blood, an heart that deviseth wicked imaginations; feet that be swift in running to mischief; a false witness that speaketh lies, and him that soweth discord among his brethren."—Prov. 6th Ch., 12, 14, 16, 19. Should this Person recognize a moral etching, be it remembered, 'twas Solomon designed it.

The methods of procuring evidence which were adopted by this Person are worthy of note, not on account of their originality, for we believe they are common with common detectives, but because they throw light upon the party using them; outline his moral features more clearly and enable him the better to be seen and known.

For instance, he desired some of Mr. Mashburn's handwriting. He obtained it in these four ways, according to the evidence. First, he learned that Mr. Mashburn had given a letter of recommendation to a young man, Mr. Bob Walker. He begs to see it for a few minutes, deceives Mr. Walker as to the purpose for which he wishes it, and fails to return it. When demanded of him by Mr. Walker, he claims to have lost it and the next day produces it in evidence, to attempt to show a similarity in some of its letters to some in the anonymous communications. See the evidence of Mr. Walker.

2d. He writes to a kinsman of his in Washington, D. C., to lend a helping hand. Together, or singly, this Person and his kinsman, Barrett, who is a journ

Person, and he failed and refused to offer it in evidence,
4th. This further scheme he devised. He approaches a deacon in his own church, tells him to ask Mr. Mashburn for Methodist statistics on the subject of missions for the purpose of being used in a meeting of a Baptist association. He secured the letter, he used the letter for religious purposes in the association and in his attempts to injure Mr. Mashburn, and he testified before the committee that he had the dual purpose in his heart when he planned to get it and believed his conduct right. We crave judgment! Was he in this act serving God
In the Livery of the Devil, or serving the devil in the livery of God, or was he serving "two masters?"

3d. His "date line" he explains was received long before the anonymous card. It was preserved. It was torn from the note and produced in evidence. The body of the note was suppressed.

The witness, Mr. Venable, says that this examine them.

1. As to the Crosby card he can assign no motive, except Mashburn's "innate love of making people mad," and gives no circum-

Mr. Mashburn the motive of petty jealousy.
What are the facts? Mr. Mashburn is a younger man than he.
Mr. Mashburn is receiving a larger salary than he. Mr. Mashburn is serving a larger congregation in a larger church building than he, and Mr. Mashburn preaches to fewer congregation in a larger church building than he, and Mr. Mashburn preaches to fewer empty benches than he.

3. As to Miss Jones's card, we find from the evidence of this Person that he believed Mr. Mashburn was annoyed by what he called "the Jones choir," that he believed Mr. Mashburn wished, without being known in the matter, to break up "the Jones choir," These facts this Person claimed to know, and these are they which be alleges also convinced him of Mr. Mashburn's authorshin of that card. On the trial of the case Mrs. S. P. Jones testified that she had herself thought and said that the choir had too many of her family and name in it—that she had talked with Mr. Mashburn about it; had insisted to him on several occasions that she should give up the choir and dissolve it, and that in point of fact this had been done, with Mr. Mashburn's knowledge, some three weeks before the Miss Annie Jones letter. In other words it appears that the result preceded the assigned motive and cause.

The trial developed this: This Person was present and saw his theory fall, as his scheme had, and yet he persists in Trying to Clear His Skirts by attempting to point out spots upon the

as his scheme had, and yet he persists in Trying to Clear His Skirts by attempting to point out spots upon the garment of one, the lachet of whose shoes he is not worthy to unloose.

4. This Person in relation to the Mrs. Norris card presented and forcefully and with apparent sincerity the following circumstances as conclusive evidence of Mr. Mashborn's guilt: That Mrs. Norris, as an official of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, wrote and sent by a messenger to Mr. Mashburn a request to make an announcement; that Mr. Mashburn made the announcement; in church as requested, not mentioning Mrs. Norris's name in connection with it; that no one knew Mrs. Norris was connected with the announcement except Mr. Mashburn, and that the next day Mrs. Norris received the anonymous letter saying, "From the announcement made in church last night," etc., rensoning that no one could have written this anonymous note to Mrs. Norris except the person who knew of her connection with the announcement, and that Mr. Mashburn alone knew this, therefore, Mr. Mashburn wrote the anonymous card. He called upon Mr. John T. Norris to verify the statement and Mr. Norris testified that such was the truth as he understood it. This testimony was given in the afternoon session of the committee.

At the night session one of the friends of

as he understood it. This testimony was given in the afternoon session of the committee.

At the night session one of the friends of the pastor moved in the committee since Mr. Norris had been allowed to give evidence for his wife in her absence, that Mr. Garwood should be allowed to testify for his wife, who was present, sitting by him, but who on account of her nervousness did not wish to speak as a witness, and that the evidence was to correct a misstatement of Mr. Norris. To this this Person objected through his compset and the objection so wrought upon the indignation of Mrs. Garwood that she forgot her nervousness and stated that the announcement notice, which this Person was arguing and trying to prove had been written by Mrs. Garwood; that it was written he hearlow of this Person, that it was written partially at the dictation of this Person, and that this Person shew all about it and knew that Mrs. Norris had no knowledge of or connection with it. Thus confronted, the evidence shows that this Person admitted the truth of the statement of Mrs. Garwood.

On the next day Mr. Norris appeared and corrected his evidence, said that he had been mistaken and that, in fact, his wife had nothing to do with the announcement and knew nothing whatever of it. Thus fell the theory, as the scheme had fallen.

It is chimney-corner law that one who Stands Upon a Falschood, knowing it to be such, falls with the falsehood; falls and lies ignobly.

The committee finds nothing more in this Person's evidence (beyond the diatribe anathema-maranatha with which it abounds), except that Mr. Mashburn had tood him 'things' that led him to conclude his guilt. That these 'things' are untrue we cannot doubt when Mr. Mashburn had tod him 'things' that led him to conclude his guilt.

ods of impeachment an inspection of the record will abundantly prove their accomplishment.

For instance, we find a dozen witnesses, male and female, in direct issue with this Person, and all of these witnesses sustain as good character, to say no more, for veracity as does he; and when in these issues of fact this Person's veracity stands unsupported and uncorroborated by any other witness or circumstance, it is difficuit to understand how he could well be believed by any court. If the doctrine of "false in one, false in all'obtains, surely the converse of the proposition is true, that being shown to be false in all issues he is false in one.

But this Person urges with technical force that these differences between himself and this cloud of witnesses are upon matters "immaterial and small." The committee submits whether he that falsely or mistakenly testifies regarding small and immaterial matters can be trusted when he approaches great and material matters. At what point between the small and the great, the immaterial and the material, does he lay aside the cloak of error and put on the armor of truth? Where does

Mr. Hyde Become Dr. Jekyll?

Mr. Hyde Become Dr. Jekvil?

Mr. Hyde Become Dr. Jekyll?

Can he who finches half-pence be trusted with crowns?

To epitomize for a moment, we find that the evidence of his own lips show that he was the discoverer of this "mare's nest;" that he was the discoverer of this "mare's nest;" that he was the discovery; that he was the tale-bearer to each of the offended recipients of these anonymous communications; that he was the "expert" to detect and the "detective" to prove; that he has on two other occasions had trouble with ministers about similar charges; that he was a zealous and partisan prosecutor before the committee; that he was the friend and flatterer of the committee beford the vegdict, and after the verdict its voluble defamer; that he was and is the monger who pours his stale imaginings in every ear with relish as sharp as ever "Ransy Snifie" felt and that Indian-like he boasts of holding high his brandished "towahawk," and forgetting the beatitude "Blessed is the peacemaker," he, this Person, places in juxtaposition thereto the threat delivered by him in solemn evidence, in ministerial robes and in theatrical style, that this blood-thirsty blade "shall never be buried until the dog is dead," We call for judgment upon his own showing of his own treasure trove. What says the Christian public? What say an honest world?

One further incident from the trial: When in the effort to have peace and live in brothly love, Mr. Mashhurn, averring his innocence of the charge, asked him: "How can I satisfy you that you are charging me unjustly?" note this Person, testifying, was asked if he would be satisfied if the committee contents. Can he who finches half-pence be trusted with isty you that you are charging me unjustly?" note this Person's reply, "alone by producing the guilty party."

This. Person, testifying, was asked if he would be satisfied if the committee convicted Mashburn. He replied yes. Then he was asked, "will you be satisfied if the committee acquits him? He answered no. Then he was asked what would satisfy him of Mashburn's innocence. He answered: "Nothing except for Mashburn to find the guilty party and prove it to him."

This Person's Ultimatum.

That Mashburn shall hunt down the author of some frivolous bucket letters and prove it; and if he fails, then he must forever stand as the gulity party! Is this the practice of that Christian charity he parades in pulpit and in print? Does not this "even handed justice commend the ingredients of his poisoned chalice to his own lips'." Does he not "teach bloody instruction which being taught return to plague the inventor?"

Touching the evidence of the pleasant little Professor, M. V. Moore by name, the committee desires only to let his speak for himself, and a few questions and answers will place him sufficiently before the public for them to draw proper conclusions.

He came to Cartersville as a professed expert to examine handwriting and testify. Instead of being brought directly to the court where the trial was in progress, when his train arrived, he was met at the train, conducted to the office of one of this Person's attorneys, where this Person, the expert's employer, was in waiting, and there was interviewed first, and afterwards produced to testify. He says at about the outset of his evidence that "to the best of his knowledge and belief is as far as he or any man can go in a case of this kind."

was the all absorbing question of the day for many years. The skill of the expert was invoked. The manuscripts of Junius obtained without any questionable methods and known to be genuine manuscripts, were submitted with samples of the handwriting of all the persons suspected. Note the result of this inexact science.

Three experts declared Junius to be the American General Lee. Imbert, a famous expert, gave a certificate in favor of Horne Tooke.

Tooke.

Another expert, Netherclift, said Junius was Mrs. Dayrolles, and other experts declared for other claimants.

Take a case of more recent date, in fact an incident of the trial: This Person, professing to be an expert, was shown a part of a card written by Mr. R. N. Best, of this county to a gentleman in Cartersville some years before. The Signature Was Hidden written by Mr. R. N. Best, of this county to a gentleman in Cartersville some years before.

The Signature Was Hidden from this Person and he was asked to say whose handwriting it was. He pointed out a word which occurred both in the anonymous communication and in the card of Mr. Best as proving the identity of the handwriting. He expressed the same conclusion after comparing this Best card with Mashburn's handwriting, and said that in his opinion, judging from the handwriting, they were all written by the same person. Not seeing the signature, he testified that Mr. Mashburn wrote it. The signature of the card was then shown him. He admirted his mistake, and when asked it it was not possible that he might make a similar mistake with regard to Mashburn, he asserted that this was "impossible." This is a fair sample of the weight of his cridence and the spirit in which it was given.

Quaere—Supposing one's claim of expertness in handwriting to be well founded, can he successfully imitate the handwriting of another whose handwriting is procured, preserved and studied?

In this case, the little professor, after finding supposed similarities in curves and angles and characters of the disguised backhand of the anonymous cards and Mr. Mashburn's writing says: "I can give yous my opinion to the best of my knowledge and belief that I find characters in this paper No. 2 that correspond with those in No. 3. I will explain those. Take in this the stem—downward stem of the letter "Y"—in both cases they loop about one-third of the distance from the bottom and curve with a stroke to the left. In the word 'of' the letter 'o' is almost an oval: in both letters it is carried a little to the left, with a curve at the ton brought down with a downward stroke, and the loop at the bottom of that book forms a circle, carried a little to the left about one-third of the distance from the character."

Q.—"After having examined it you have an opinion or not as to whether the letters were written by the same person."

This is a sample of hi

ich cases?"

A.—"If depends on the amount involved."

Q.—"You do testify for pay on questions?"

A.—"Yes sir."

After fifteen questions and answers this follows:

2d. "How much do you get from the sulpreme courts for testimony?"

A.—"That is not a fair question; you cannot make a man convict himself."

Mr. Akin—If you refuse on the ground that twill criminate you I will ston.

Q.—"You were not sworn in this case?"

A.—"Yo, sir." A.—"No. sit."

Q.—"Don't you know that you cannot be convicted no matter what you testify?"

A.—"No sit."

Q.—"Do you consider it criminal getting pay for your feathrony?"

A.—"Only for telling it."

Q.—"You did expect to get pay—"

Q.—"What are your expenses?"

Q.—"Do you refuse again to state about your pay?" A.—"I don't think it has anything to do

A.—'I expect to get more, but it is not so much more.'

Here this Person says, "I am perfectly willing for the whole thing to come out."

Q.—'Now tell it."

A.—'It is the sum of $25."

Enough said.

This Person, some time before the trial, borrowed from one of his lawyers who examined witnesses for him upon Mashburn's trial, a little law book, "Rogers on Expert Testimony." On the trial this Person undertook to testify as to the rules by which an expert is governed in deciding upon the identity of handwriting. It is a remarkable fact that this Person's testimony is almost identical with some passages in this book which he had previously borrowed; in some places using the identical phraseology; yet lie never once intimated his indebtedness to a book, but testified as if the rules which he gave were the result of his own experience and expertness. If this Person had borrowed other haw books he would have found grouped together the opinion of textbook writers and courts on the the Worthlessness of Expert Testimony in handwriting. Instance the following: "Perhaps the testimony which least deserves credit with a jury is that of skilled witnesses." "They do not indeed willfully misrepresent what they think but their judgment becomes so warped by regarding the subject in one point of view, that, even when conscientiously disposed, they are incapable of expressing a candid opinion." Taylor on Evdence, Sec. 58.

"Medical experts are beginning to be regarded much in the light of hired advocates, and their testimony is nothing more than a studied argument in favor of the side for which they have been called," Redfield on Wills, 103.

"Experience has shown that opposite opinions of persons professing to be experts may be obtained to any amount." Supreme Court United States, in 21 Howard, 88.

"Hardly any weight is given to the evidence of what are called scientific witnesses. They come with a blas on their minds to support the cause in which they are embarked." Lord Campbell in Tracy Perrage, 10 Cl. & Fin. 154.

Lord President Boyle in the Scottish Court, said of such witnesses: "I pay very little to be of penmanship. The introduction of profesthey take different sides." I seems to be a part of their profession to take different sides. If seems to be a part of their profession to take different sides." 6 Dunlop, 901.

"Every one knows how unsafe it is to rely on any one's opinion concerning the niceties of penmanship. The introduction of professional experts has only added to the mischief instead of pallisting it, and the results of litigation have shown that these are often the Mereat Pretenders to Knowledge whose notions are pure speculations." Mich. Supreme Court, in 34 Mich., 21.

U The supreme court, Washington, D. C., referring to the opinion of expert witnesses on handwriting, said: "Of all kinds of evidence admitted into the court, this is the most unsatisfactory. It is so weak and decrepit as scarcely to deserve a place in our system of jurisprudence." I McArthur, 270.
"It would be trite to repeat the very uniform expression of judges and the books as to the value of this kind of evidence, yet it is warrantable to say that such expression is corroborated by our own observation and experience in judicial administration." 47 Vt. 222.

Similar opinions might be cited indefinitely. Merest Pretenders to Knowledge Similar opinions might be cited indefinitely. The professional witness is almost a stench in the nostrils of honest men.

Junius is still unknown, but could this Person be shown a few scraps of paper, the mystery might be solved, especially if he were permitted an assistant witness paid so much per day to corroborate.

That this Person should boast of resolutions endorsing his sincerity is natural and to be expected.

A Whited Sepulcher

may still be full of dead men's bones, and that this Person should make haste to air himself in print as cleansed is readily understood—the leper when cleansed was told to show himself to the priest—but when in so doing he repeats the personal charge and adds therto the graver one that this church has engaged in "a farce and a sham" and indulges in public accusations, uncovered slander, and unmitigated rancour, then he overleaps himself.

At most the writing of these cards was a plece of puerile malice, entirely harmless in its effect. Who cares for the opinion, who respects the words of an anonymous letter? What gentleman would have laid awake at its effect. Who cares for the opinion, who respects the words of an anonymous letter? What gentleman would have laid awake at nights working out a clue on such a thing? But this Person was perhaps right in moving heaven and earth, because in his case his card said, "you need not think that when you die all wisdom will be gone." This was truly aggravating and approached in seriousness the argument precipitated by Jack when he called "Dame Quickly" a "thing." Some things there are that can't be borne, and as Dame Quickly hotly denied that she was a thing and gave good Jack the lie, so it seems this Person would immolate upon the altar of his wrath any one who thought as he says his card read. He should provide a palace for countless hecatombs.

Wherefore, Having given a fair synopsis of the main points in this matter; believing that all fair, impartial and unprejudiced minds familiar with the circumstances will endorse our sentiments as embodied in the sequent resolutions; we, therefore, recommend the adoption by this church, of the following:

Resolved, first, That this church heartily commends the conduct of our pastor since he was subjected to that ordeal so trying to a just and inuocent man, continued and unjust accusations of guilt. We believe in his innocence; we despise the charges; and we loathe an ddetest 20 spirit which, it seems, would vindictively and mallelously continue a persecution concocted without excuse, persisted in without justification, and published to the world without regard to the decencies or proprieties which should characterize the conduct of a gentiema.

Resolved, second. That a copy of this report or proprieties which should characterize the conduct of a gentlemap.

Resolved, second. That a copy of this report and these reolutions be furnished to Rev. John H. Mashburn, and to the sause newspaper in which the persecutor published an interview and a card disseminating slanders which it is the purpose of this report in part to correct. Resolved, third, That this report be spread upon the minutes of our church conference.

Resolved, fourth, That this Person be namless in this report and on the records of this conference.

Other News and Gossip Caught at the Statehouse Yesterday—The Mili-tary and the World's Fair.

Dr. Batty, of Rome, whose name is known to the medical world of the nation, is going to give the state of Georgia his entire library.

He told Governor Northen of his intention at the Grant-Inman wedding night before last, and the governor will place the gift in the hands of the state when the next gift in the hands of the state when the next legislature meets for business.

This is no inconsiderable gift. Dr. Battey's library is an extensive one, consisting of more than a thousand volumes and including some valuable books. Some of the books are really rare, and are not found the libraries of the country in this day.

the books are really rare, and are not found at the libraries of the country in this day and time, and in this way are inestimable.

Dr. Batter is one of the most famous of all the famous physicians of the southern states and has a record that is thoroughly enviable in the sight of the profession. He began collecting his library when he was quite a young man interested in the mineral resources of the northern part of the state. He has two or three distinct libraries. One of them might be termed a chemical library. of them might be termed a chemical library, the other a geological and the last the medical library. Combined they will form quite a great feature to the state library and one entire corner of the splendid half over which Colonel John Milledge presides will be taken up with the books that are to be presented o Georgia by Dr. Battey. It is known that for several years past the Georgia legislature has been putting in bills, two or three at a time, for the estabbills, two or three at a time, for the establishment of a state medical board. These bills have never been sufficiently favored by the members of the general assembly to become laws, but the tendency is certainly in that direction, and it now seems clear that it is a question of a short time before the state will have a thoroughly equipped medical board. When this is done the library given to the state by Dr. Battey will be all the more an important feature of the state en to the state by Dr. Battey will be all the more an important feature of the state library. Only a year or two ago when small pox laged in a certain locality of southern Georgia, the governor was called on for help and found at the last minute that he had his hands tied. There was no legislative provision for help to the afflicted region and the governor had to call upon the government for help. An inspector from headquarters at Washington was sent out and a thorough system of quarantine was established by him. The houses where the dread plague had been were cleaned and kept disinfected.

Then it was that Governor Northen saw the great necessity of having a well equipped department of health as a state institution, and he went before several of the legislative committees of the last general assembly and did all he could to get them to interest themselves in the matter. The consequence was that several bills were introduced looking to the establishement of a state board of health. One or two of the bills are still pending before the general assembly, and at the next regular session of the legislature in October will come up for passage.

It will require but little money for the passage.

It will require but little money for the thorough equipment of such a department and the good to be derived from the step cannot be estimated.

Governor Northen who has taken such an interest in the matter all along is delighted that Dr., Battey has decided to give the state as fine a medical library as can be found in the land.

He stoke of the conversation he had had found in the land.

He spoke of the conversation he had had with Dr. Battery yesterday with genuine pleasure and concern. He says that he has already made arrangements for the books to be placed in a desirable and attractive corner of the state library. The Military Won't Go.

It now begins to dawn that the great scheme to have all of the volunteer soldiers of the country go to Chicago this summer to attend the world's fair in a body has faller through.

Not long ago much interest was taken in this giant movement by the Georgia volunteers. Quarternaster General West went on to Chicago with the determination to as-teers. Quartermaster General West went on to Chicago with the determination to ascertain what arrangements could be made for the success of the undertaking. He came back several weeks ago still with the hope that the plan could be carried out.

The history of the proposed encampment at Chicago is as follows: It was proposed to have a body of regulars encamped at Chicago during the exposition; this camp should serve as a model, and the command encamped should be composed of the three arms of the service. Thus the visiting military forces of all states would have an object lesson, not only as to a camp, but in the duties, drills, etc., of all arms of the service when in camp. A convention of officers of the national guards and troops of states and territories assembled in Chicago October 27, 1891, at which the subject of an encampment to be held in Chicago in the summer of 1893 was carefully and fully considered. Thirty-three states and territories and the District of Columbia were represented. It was unanimously resolved by this convention that an encampment of the forces of the various states and territories to be held in Chicago from the 5th to the 29th of August 1893, and congress was subsequently asked to appropriate $1,500,000 to be used under the direction of the secretary of war to cover the necessary expenses of this encampment.

Since Quartermaster General West, of

of war to cover the necessary expenses of this encampment.

Since Quartermaster General West, of Georgia, went to Chicago, the adjutant general of Alabama has been there and finds that the scheme is practically abandoned. He makes the following interesting report to the governor of Alabama:

First—The proposed model camp of the United States forces has been officially abandoned.

United States forces has been officially abandoned.

Second—The proposed plan of encampment of the national guards and troops of the states and terrifories has been given up.

Third—The proposed plan of the Illinois National guard of securing a camping site, and arranging a camp for visiting military organizations to occupy, has been found impracticable, and therefore abandoned.

Fourth—The expense of an encampment of the troops of this state at Chicago, during this summer involves an immense expenditure, which, as it must in the main be borne by the officers and men, makes such an encampment impossible.

Fifth—Separate companies visiting the world's fair, upon their arrival at Chicago, will at once lose their distinctive military feature, and will become as any other individuals visiting the exposition; due to the fact that there will be lacking every necessary means to preserve their military feature, and of the officers exercising military control and discipline over their men. Besides the expense would be great to every officer and man.

A Joke on Mrs. Northen.

A Joke on Mrs. Northen.

Governor Northen has been invited by the ladies of the Hancock County Memorial Association to deliver the annual address before the people of that secton on the coming Memorial Day.

The governor was glad to get the invitation for more reasons than one it seems. Many years ago he was invited by the same association to make the memorial address. The governor was at that time a simple Georgia farmer and was handed the invitation one night when he returned from his fields by his wife. He turned to her and said: "My dear, I cannot make this speech. My head is filled with no thoughts except those of cotton fields and niggers, and I just haven't the time to sit down and think up a speech."

"Never mind that," and the good, wife encouragingly. "Never mind that; you just no now and make the speech; of course, they will never ask you to make another one."

The weary farmer Northen then and there made make the middle the model make the sould make

Yesterday the longed for invitaton came at last, and the governor was the proudest man in all the world. He fairly leaped for joy as he ran home from the statehouse and threw the invitation to Mrs. Northen, dancing with rapture and delight around her while she read it. The joke was on Mrs. Northen, for she remembered well the good humored little speech she had made long ago when her husband came in from the farm and on the first flush declined to accept the first invitation of the Hancock Memorial Association to speak at their exercises in honor of the heroic dead of the confederacy.

IT MEETS TODAY.

The Grand Jury of Fulton County Will Tura
Out a Lot of Indictments.

Mr. John Monaghan was busily engaged in the solicitor's office yesterday afternoon, with his coat off and a pen in his hands, while a look of absorbed interest inparted a serious aspect to his features.

He hardly looked up from his desk, which was covered with a lot of papers and legal documents in a confused heap. His reply to all questions was a scarcely audible grunt, while his pen kept up a continual racket as it galloped away over the paper.

racket as it galloped away over the paper.

"What is your complaint today, Mr. Monaghan?" the question was asked in a semi-serious manner.

After a silence of several minutes, during which time it seemed as if the official had written the declaration of independence, he quietly laid aside his pen, and lifting his eyebrows until his lashes were on a level with the questioner, he replied to the intergrapation:

"I am getting ready for the grand jury, which meets tomorrow. I have been hard at work all day, and have scarcely taken time to breathe. This is the first recess I have taken since I began to write and I can tell you it feels refreshing."

"Are there many inmates of the jail at present?"

"Yes, there are several." With that he

"Are there many inmates of the jail at present?"

"Yes, there are several." With that he proceeded to examine a large book which was lying on a neighboring desk and after poring over its leaves he announced the result of his investigation.

"There are fifty-seven in all, including Julia Force, who will be tried at the next term of the court, and the crimes with which they are charged present an interesting variety. The grand jury will make out true bills when they meet tomorrow against all of the parties in jail who have not been indicted, and these will be tried next week."

The grand jury will meet at the usual time this morning and several indictments will be the result of their deliberations to-day.

But when the time for action arrives stop thinking and buy a bottle of genuine Carlsbad Sprudel Salt. It is the best natural aperient and alterative extant. The genuine imported article has the signature of "Eisner & Mendelson Company, agents, 152 and 154 Fraklin street, New York,"

Gin and Buchu

For the last few years kidney disease has been rapidly on the increase.

Insidious in its approach—alarming in its consequences—this terrible scourge has put down some of the brightest intellects of the age. Many suffer from kidney trouble long before they are aware of the true character of their complaint.

In disease any neglect or delay is dangerous. This is peculiarly true of all kidney affections. As soon as the first Dull pain in the back, weakness over the loins or tenderness upon pressure, scanty or reddish urine, cloudy after standing, brick dust deposit, albumen or uric acid reaction, smarting or burning palas in passing water, etc., are danger signals, and should be promptly heeded.

U. O. RBERTSON, D. M,

HE TELLS THEM NOT TO REGISTER.

A Chinaman Talks About the "Picty-Tak-en" and the "Regitty"—The Celes-tials Will Not Obey the Law.

There has not a single Chinaman regis tered under the registration act passed by congress and not a one will register in this

The Chinese were so slow in coming for-ward—in fact, they did not come forward at all—in the matter of registering that the act was modified in a degree. The law at first was that every Chinaman had to have his photograph taken and three pictures made from the proof. One of these photographs was attached to a certain form and sent to the department in Washington, one was to be filed in the office of the revenue department and the third attached to a different document, was to remain in ssion of the Chinaman registering. It was feared, since no more than eight or celestials in the entire United States have registered, that the photograph facture was in the way, so this was off, but the effect was still not what the bill ture was in the way, so this was stricken off, but the effect was still not what the bill was intended for.

The inside reason for this backwardness on the part of John Chinaman is that the emperor of China has issued a mandate ordering all Chinamen in the United States not to register under the new law. The mandate sets forth that if any harm comes to a single Chinaman by reason of this law operating against him the Americans in China will be made to suffer and just such laws will be put into operation in China relating to the Americans.

In many ways this law will act very harshly against the pigtails. They are obliged to get two re-ponsible citizens of America to swear to their respectability and swear to the place of residence of the applicant. If all this is not complied with by the middle of May the Chinamen who have not registered will be, if the letter of the law is carried out, forced to leave this country and return to China.

The work of moving the Chinamen will not be put upon the local authorities, but will be the duty of the United States marshal, who will carry out the law through his deputies. Many prominent lawyers and business men have expressed the opinion that the law is an unjust one and that it would be nothing more than a just retaliation if the emperor of China were to enforce the same law against Americans in China.

For the past week there has been a strange

China.

For the past week there has been a strange Chinaman in Atlanta. He appears to be a well educated man and wears glasses. He has the bearing of a high-caste Chinaman, being exceedingly well dressed. That this is the man who has given out the orders of the emperor is conclusive.

What a Chinaman Had to Say.

A Connese laundryman who understood English in a bobtail flush kind of a way was interviewed by a Constitution reporter in regard to the registration law.

"Have you registered," the Chinaman, who was a bilious looking individual, was asked first.

"You mean dose nicty taken" replied

"You mean dose picty taken," replied the Chinaman in a mild manner, his voice sounding so limp that one would never have suspected him of ever using starch, not even suspected him of ever using starch, not even on a collar.

"Yes," was the answer.

"No." answered the Chinaman in a hurt tone of voice, as if somebody had stepped on his feelings, "me no hab picty taken and me no hab name fixed down on regitty."

"Then you'll have to take a trip to China for your health."

"No me stop right here. Emperor say to us like dis: You in my place over dere; me in you place over dis place. You folks say to me, git out, den my folks say to you, you git out too. If I git out, so you git out wid me too."

"Let me see what the emperor has written."

The the see what the emperor has written."

"No, me no hab not-ing, but me no leabee dis place allee same time."

The above put into straight English means that the emperor of China will not see his people done an injustice any more than Uncle Sam would stand tamely by and let some other power maltreat his subjects.

The climax will have been attained when the first pigtail is hustled back to China and the emperor finds it out.

Brooklyn, N. Y., 40 Orange st., February 11, 1890—I have used Allcock's Plasters for some years for myself and family, and, as far as able, for the many sufferers who come to us for assistance, and have found them a genuine relief for most of the aches and pains which the flesh is helr to. I have used Allcock's Plasters for all kind of lameness and acute pain, and, by frequent experiments, find that they can control many cases not noticed in your circulars.

The above is the only testimonial I have ever given in favor of any plaster, and if my name has been used to recommend any other it is without my authority or sanction.
